

Crowds Continue to Visit Exposition

Wednesday Night's Attendance Was Over 1,800—Everybody Pleased With Complete Display of Ulster County Products and Entertainment—Change of Entertainment Program—Good Sized Crowds in Afternoon—Ends Saturday.

An attendance of about 1,800 people marked the third night of the Kingston Exposition at the Kingston Fair Grounds Wednesday night and special attention was given by the large crowd to the exhibit of fruit, vegetables and other farm produce displayed under the auspices of the Ulster County Farm Bureau and of the exhibit of work performed by the members of the Ulster County Home Bureau, both of which are so complete that they command the admiration of everyone.

New Entertainment Program.
Tonight there will be a change of entertainment program, the program consisting of acts by the McKinley Sisters, the Rubie Quartet and Ray Huling and his wonderful trained seal.

The program of music by Malsenholder's orchestra changes each afternoon and evening.

Boys Win Prizes.
The judging of the exhibits of the fourteen boys who compose the Asbury Boys' Corn Club of Asbury, town of Saugerties, took place Wednesday night. The boys' corn club was formed through cooperation of the Asbury Grange and the Ulster County Farm Bureau, and certified seed was distributed to the boys on the same day by the Farm Bureau.

The boys were instructed in regard to corn planting in particular, and agriculture in general, by Farm Bureau Manager Wigston, who visited each boy's "farm" once during the season. Prizes of $5, $3 and $2 were offered by the Kingston Chamber of Commerce for the best specimens of corn grown by the boys.

The prizes were awarded as follows: First prize of $5, to Floyd Jones; second prize of $3 to Freeman Lasher; third prize of $2 to Adeline G. Cole.

The other boys who took part in the contest were Fred Wells, Irlby Lewis, Walter Wolven, Irving Dedrick, John E. Coyle, Walter Overbaugh, Hubert Legg, Francis Bishop, Forrest Dedrick, Ernest Cauley, Richard Cauley.

Esopus Cooperative Exhibit.
The exhibit of fruit by the Esopus Cooperative Fruit Growers' Association, forming part of the general exhibit held under the auspices of the Ulster County Farm and Home Bureau, attracts much attention and Esopus fruit continues high in the estimation of the public after examination of the various fruits displayed. In addition to the regular exhibit of the Cooperative Association, various residents of the town of Esopus also have exhibits of fruit at the exposition, all of which contribute greatly to the realization that Ulster county products deserve the fame they have acquired and with further cooperation by all county fruit growers will command a high place in the general fruit market of the eastern states.

Exhibitors in the Esopus Cooperative Fruit Growers' Association booth are C. C. DuMont, Leslie Herring, John Herring, H. M. Cameron, F. C. Chaffee, Dr. James R. Nelson, F. Van Wageningen, Harry Eimann, Holt N. Winfield and Harold V. Story.

Interesting Nutrition Exhibit.
The nutrition exhibit by the Ulster County Home Bureau attracts special attention and calls attention forcefully to the importance of providing proper food for the table.

"Use these," reads one sign which stands in front of a bottle of milk and a bowl of entire wheat flour.

"And you won't need these," reads the next sign, which stands behind a set of false teeth.

"Eat two fruits and two vegetables during the winter," says another sign which explains a small exhibit of fruit and vegetables.

"And you won't need these in the spring," says the adjoining sign, which calls attention to a bottle of old fashioned spring tonic and a bottle containing beef, iron and wine.

Since the Ulster County Home Bureau has been conducting courses in nutrition as part of its work, in the eight years of its organization, spring tonics and various nostrums which used to be considered necessary in every household have entirely disappeared in many communities. Proper diet and properly prepared food have taken their place with much more satisfactory results. The exhibits mentioned are only part of the nutrition exhibit, whose purpose is to attract attention to this important branch of the home study.

Seek to Extend Electric Lines

Public Service Commission Reserves Decision in Application of Kingston Gas & Electric For Extension in Town of Kingston.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, Sept. 18.—Joint hearings were held by the Public Service Commission Wednesday on the applications of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Company of Poughkeepsie, the Upper Hudson Electric & Railroad Company of Catskill, and the Kingston Gas & Electric Company of Kingston for permission to extend their electric lines in Dutchess, Greene and Ulster counties. The Central Hudson Company sought authorization for construction of lines in the towns of Unionville and Clinton, Dutchess county. The Upper Hudson Company sought permission to construct lines in the towns of Durham and Greenville, Greene county, and the Kingston company asked permission to extend its lines into the town of Kingston, Ulster county.

The Central Hudson Company proposes to erect a line from its substation at Washington Hollow through the town of Washington into the town of Unionville. The construction of the whole line will cost about $6,900, of which $3,676.09 is the estimated cost in the town of Unionville. J. H. G. Kidd of Poughkeepsie district commission manager, testified. A 2,300 volt line will be constructed.

The extension into the town of Clinton will start at Washington Hollow and will run through Hibernia and along the county road between Salt Point and Clinton Corners. It is proposed to construct a 2,300 volt line at an estimated cost of $10,666.69.

W. K. Hagenbotham, manager of the Upper Hudson company, testified as to the plans of his company. The line in the town of Durham will be extended to East Durham, a distance of about 3.12 miles, at an estimated cost of $12,145. It will be insulated for 4,000 volts, although at present it will carry only 2,200 volts. The line in the town of Greenville will be extended to Freehold, a distance of about 3 1/2 miles, at an estimated cost of $10,344. The line also will be insulated for 4,000 volts but will carry 2,300 for the present.

E. R. Acker, superintendent of the Kingston company, said that his company proposed to construct an extension from the city of Kingston to West Hurley, through the towns of Ulster and Kingston. Two short parts of the line, the total distance of which is 30,095 feet, are in the town of Kingston. The company already has a franchise to operate in the town of Ulster. The estimated cost of the proposed line is $11,115. All three companies will charge the same rates for electricity as are charged in neighboring towns served by them. There was no opposition to the hearing. Court & Wilke of New York, through M. H. Bigelow, represented all three companies. Decision was reserved by the commission.

has been good, and for those who cannot attend in the evening the afternoon furnishes a splendid opportunity to enjoy the Exposition and the elaborate entertainment program which begins at 2:30 o'clock. The evening entertainment is at 8:30 o'clock.

Contest Will Of Mary Flick

Jury Hears Testimony Of Contestants, Brother And Sister Of Deceased, Who Seek To Break Will Alleging Will Was Not Properly Executed.

The matter of proving the will of Mary Flick, of the city of Kingston was taken up in county court Wednesday with a jury. Robert G. Groves appeared for proponents of the will with Judge Walter N. Gill, of counsel; Andrew J. Cook appeared for the contestants, George Kolts and Anna Demskie, brother and sister of the deceased. By the will of Mrs. Flick, who died June 11, 1924, Mrs. James E. Kiersted of Hasbrouck avenue with whom she made her home since the death of her father, deceased was named as executrix. There was a possibility that he would take up again the K. K. K. issue and it was certain he would devote part of his remarks to religious freedom. The high spot, however, was expected to be a straight from the shoulder attack upon alleged Republican corruption.

Davis hopped off the special train which brought him here from Des Moines, full of confidence and enthusiasm. His western trip at least had inspired the candidate with a firm belief in his ability to win next November fourth.

With the Chicago date fulfilled, the nominee planned to swing eastward through a series of Indiana engagements before plunging into a drive to win the Ohio valley and Atlantic seaboard. Early next week he will begin a march up and down the eastern coast on a trip that will include a dozen speeches.

In closing his trans-Mississippi tour at Des Moines, Davis offered for the first time his personal interpretation of the Democratic platform on the issues of tariff and taxation. He also offered a national and demanded that the United States "fulfill its pledge" to enter the World Court without further delay.

On the subject of taxation Davis declared he favored the same theory as in morals, "that the strong must bear the burdens of the weak."

"I am for reduced taxes," he said, "not only because they lighten the burden of the citizen, but because they reduce the temptation to extravagance. It is healthy for every government, whether local or national to be kept on a restricted, if not a starvation diet. The only way to prevent extravagance is to maintain a minimum of taxation."

"The bill passed by the last congress, reducing income taxes must be treated as a beginning and not as a finality. I do not believe in high tax rates simply for the purpose of taxing the rich or any higher taxes of any sort than those necessary to support the government."

On the other hand, common justice dictates that when reductions come, they shall be given first to those who feel the burden most severely.

On the tariff, the nominee declared himself for an immediate revision of the Fordney-McCumber tariff bill but asserted by inference that he was opposed to "free trading," and favored such easy revision as would not alarm business.

RUSSIANS PLANT RED FLAG ON WRANGLER ISLAND.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Moscow, Sept. 18.—Wrangler Island, in the Behring Sea, where a gallant band of Americans and Canadians perished after being left there by the Explorer Steffanson to claim possession for Canada, was expected today to be the cause of international complications between Canada and Soviet Russia.

Russia has always claimed the island and has never recognized Canada's claim to possession.

It is announced officially that the Russian steamer Krasny Oktyabr planted the Red flag on the island about August 20 and that the Russians found one American and eleven Eskimos there.

Davis Opens Chicago Campaign

Keynote Speech, Which He Hopes Will Start Stampede in Banners of Democracy—To Visit Eastern Coast Next Week.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Chicago, Sept. 18.—Tanned and enthused by his long swing around the agricultural west, John W. Davis returned here today to expound his governmental theories in the haunts of industry.

The Democratic nominee was ready to deliver a keynote speech here tonight in Chicago's stock yard South Side, which, he hoped, would start a stampede in the banners of Democracy throughout the whole industrial mid-west. He planned to include the entire range of campaign issues in his speech and to summarize the views of his western tour.

There was a possibility that he would take up again the K. K. K. issue and it was certain he would devote part of his remarks to religious freedom. The high spot, however, was expected to be a straight from the shoulder attack upon alleged Republican corruption.

Prince to Again Visit Metropolis

To See More Serious Side of America—Realizes Study Here Will Help Him as King of England.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Syosset, N. Y., Sept. 18.—A big limousine was waiting today outside the door of the James A. Burden home here to shoot the Prince of Wales over to New York city for his fourth visit.

Captain A. F. Lascelles, secretary to His Royal Highness, said Wales was so pleased with his visit yesterday afternoon that it was "very likely" he would go again today to see the more serious side of the city. It was hinted that Manhattan might see a good deal of the Prince between now and Sunday night, when he will depart for his ranch in High River, Alberta, Canada.

"The Prince has been anxious ever since he came to Long Island," said Lascelles, "to do little things such as his visit to Julia Richman High School and the Museum of Natural History. He could not do it very well until this week, however, because of engagements that had been made and because of the polo matches, which he came to see."

"Is the Prince doing this merely as a spectator?" Captain Lascelles was asked, "since his station is divorced from the executive branch of the British government?"

"No," was the answer. "What the Prince observes here will be reflected in England, because, in the last century, the relations between the royal family and the active heads of the government have been closer."

"The fact that the Prince wished to see more of the serious side of America, is what caused him to postpone until next Sunday, his trip to Canada. Study of this kind he undertakes because he realizes that it is all part of his job, preparing for the job he must some day undertake as king."

SPECIALISTS IN THIEVERY ALSO

Each Separate Division Has Its Own Peculiar Technique and Tools.

New York.—In the many years that thievery has flourished it has become highly specialized. Each separate division has its own technique and tools and is carried on by men skilled in their use. The holdup man has his gun and his blackjack and a speedy motor car to make his get-away. The second-story man has his jimmy and his flashlight. The bank teller uses false entries and bundles of fake securities. Railroad freight car thieves are part of an extensive organization that includes spies to keep an eye out for valuable shipments moving over the road, men who break into cars of moving trains and throw off merchandise, confederates with motor trucks, and fences that dispose of the loot.

Take any professional out of his particular department and the chances are that he would bungle the job. A first-class box car thief could no more fish a diamond ring from a jewelry store than an iron puddler could make the wheels of a 15-jewel movement go round.

One of the specialists is the department store thief. The larger department stores have detective forces of from 10 to 15 operatives, half of them usually women. Some of the smaller stores keep one or two operatives in their employ, while others secure detectives from outside agencies for work at rush seasons or special sales. In some cases the department store thief is behind the counter. A girl working at the silk stocking counter, for example, finds it easy to get a pair for herself, for a gift, or for sale at a reduced price to a fence. She simply sticks several pairs under her garter and walks out of the store with them when she goes home at night. Detection is difficult. While the number of stockings originally delivered to the counter is a matter of record, the fact that four or five girls all make sales out of the same lot and several hundred customers handle them each day makes it extremely difficult to trace the thief. If employees are suspected of systematic robbing, detectives armed with warrants search their homes for stolen goods while the employees are detained at the store on one pretext or another.

How the Shoplifter Works. Thefts by customers are also difficult to detect unless the sales people or the store detective catch them in the very act of lifting the merchandise. Silk stockings are stolen more frequently than any other articles sold in department stores. Silk underwear comes next in popularity, with leather goods a close third. Various methods are used by customers who help themselves to these articles. Women shoplifters frequently place a bag with a hinged bottom on top of some goods on the counter. The woman opens the bag and pretends to be searching for something in it while in reality she has pulled up the hinged bottom and drawn the merchandise inside.

Another method commonly used is for a person to take from a handbag a piece of cloth with the alleged purpose of matching it. When the cloth is put back into the bag a pair of silk stockings or a piece of silk underwear is stuffed in with it.

Thefts of jewelry, while not as common as a few years ago, are still of such frequent occurrence as to keep store detectives on the jump. In the old days, when department stores kept their jewelry displayed on the tops of counters or when salesmen brought out several trays at a time, it was a great deal easier to get away with a gold watch or a diamond ring than it is today, when trays are kept under glass and the salesmen produce only one at a time.

Chewing Gum as an Aid. Two methods are still used in the theft of rings. Both of them make use of a humble piece of chewing gum. In the first a man with a cane steps up to the jewelry counter and asks to see some rings. The salesman brings out a tray and lays several rings on the counter. The prospective "customer" has placed a piece of chewing gum on the tip of the curved handle of his cane. When the salesman is not looking the thief touches the gum to one of the rings. It sticks. He tells the clerk he has not found anything he wants and walks out.

In the other method a piece of gum is attached to the bottom of the narrow strip of molding running around the top of the glass showcase. The thief is shown some rings and, when the attention of the clerk is temporarily diverted, he sticks one of the rings in the gum. When the ring is mislaid by the salesman the thief admits that it disappeared under suspicious circumstances and consents to be searched by the store detective. Nothing is found on him and he walks out. A short time later a confederate enters, engages the ring salesman in conversation, and slips the ring from the gum under the molding into his pocket.

Thefts of hats are common. One method is for a woman wearing a $2 hat to walk into the store and ask to see a hat selling somewhere around $25. She tries on various models, and when the saleswoman looks away for a moment the "customer" walks out with a $25 hat on her head while her $2 hat graces the counter. Men also work this trick during straw-hat season.

One of the most daring of recent thefts occurred in a department store in an eastern city. A man wearing no hat approached a negro porter employed in the store, slipped 25 cents into his hand and asked him to help roll up a very expensive oriental rug lying on the floor. The porter, pleased with the tip and assuming that the man was an employee because he wore no hat, helped him roll up the rug and put it on his shoulder. Several doorwalkers and store officials who saw the man walk away with the rug thought he was an employee of the window trimming department. They reached this conclusion when they saw the porter helping him. The man disappeared around a corner and leisurely walked out of the building.

Shake-Down Game.

A shake-down game was recently worked on a department store in a Middle West city by a well-dressed man who stepped up to the counter and asked to see some gloves. He tried on several pairs, glancing around nervously. His furtive glances attracted the attention of a detective, who took up a position at the next counter and watched him. While the salesgirl's back was turned the man put a pair of gloves into his pocket. He then told her he saw nothing he liked and started walking out of the store, followed by the detective, who stopped him at the door. He became indignant when the detective requested him to accompany him.

The detective, however, was insistent, and the man was searched. A pair of gloves similar in color and design to those on sale at the counter was found in his pocket. They bore, however, the mark of another department store in the same city. The man said he had bought them there the day before. He took the detective to that store with him and the salesgirl at the glove counter verified the sale. The man again became indignant and shook down the store for a tidy sum on the ground of a threatened suit. His little ruse of first ascertaining what kind of gloves the store was selling and then purchasing a pair like them and laying them on the counter while he talked to the salesgirl worked. —New York Times.

Plan Champlain Isle for Honeymooners Only

Burlington, Vt.—Dreams of honeymooners for an isolated island are on the way to reality.

Mrs. Frederick Welles of Burlington, owner of an 85-acre island in Lake Champlain, has received bids for it from six different men.

The island is equipped with a house of sixteen rooms, luxuriously furnished. It has four baths, extensive servants' quarters, a deer park and a yacht. The house was erected at a cost of $100,000 and will, it is understood, be sold for approximately $90,000 to a company which proposes to rent the entire establishment out by the day, week or month to honeymooners only, at the rate of $100 a day, with an additional charge for servants and for food. A week's honeymoon there would cost about $1,000.

Mrs. Welles in describing the island said:

"Young people will have 85 acres to themselves. The servants' quarters are in a separate bungalow. As for the house, it is so large that the honeymooners could lose themselves in it, so to speak. The living room, dining and breakfast room are most artistically furnished. The baths are spacious, equipped with large showers and marble floors.

"Then there is the deer park, a beautiful shaded retreat with winding paths shadowed with big trees. The yacht will carry them back and forth to the shore, the trip taking about one hour and ten minutes, as the island stands in the middle of the lake, far removed from the currents."

The place is known as "Star Island." Mrs. Welles recently bought a larger island somewhere in the lake and accordingly has no further use for the honeymoon island.

Find Aztec Markings on Nevada Cavern Wall

Reno, Nev.—Discovery of figuring in Aztec characters on the rock wall of a cavern in eastern Nevada, near the Lehman Caves National Reserve, was announced by Dr. B. F. Schappelle, University of Nevada, archeologist. He described the find as one of the most important of its kind among western archeologic discoveries of recent times. The tracings are said to be the farthest north Aztec markings discovered. Rock writings resembling Egyptian hieroglyphics also were noted by the expert.

Members of the exploration party expressed belief that further investigation would uncover an underground city among the caves and on the banks of an underground river.

In a burial cave with a four by six-foot opening at the surface, leading to a large underground room, five human skeletons were found. The bones were badly disintegrated. Live angie-worms were discovered 100 feet underground in the caves.

Human Newspaper Dead

Freemont, Neb.—John Hauser, "the human newspaper," is dead. Hauser ran an unpretentious book and stationery store, and dug up more news stories during his career than any reporter in town. He wrote what he found in longhand and hung sheets of news in the store window. In a short time his store became the mecca for every curious-minded citizen.

Flyers Arrive At St. Joseph

By Telegram to The Freeman.
St. Joseph, Mo., Sept. 18.—The world-famous flyers arrived here at 12:22 today. The planes flew over the city before heading to Rosecrans aviation field where they will remain for about an hour before proceeding to Muskogee, Okla. The landing was completed at 12:25 p. m. A great crowd greeted the flyers.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Sept. 18.—The main body of industrial and railroad stocks continued today the rally which started in the previous session. While a few of the railroad stocks participated in the movement, the aggressive buying was the industrial stocks, with the steel, motor, rubber and tire, motor accessory, and high priced specialty stocks swinging briskly into the forward movement which featured Wednesday's close. At the head of the motor group Studebaker set a new high record for 1924 by selling up to 40% as the other market leaders, including Steel Common, American Can, New York Central, Marland Oil, etc., added fractionally to market valuations.

New forward movements were started today in a number of stocks which have been comparatively dormant since Labor Day. These included the mercantile stocks, Schulte, May Department Stores, Sears Roebuck etc.; the tire and rubber shares, the pool specialties like Easton Pipe, Tobacco Products etc., and the equipment and accessory group. Sugar stocks also continued to move upward, through some of the big refining companies have started to mark down prices for refined sugar. Further covering of shorts in American Woolen, Colorado Fuel and Iron, Crucible helped to stiffen the market for stocks of this kind and Woolen at 56 1/4 showed the best recovery from the heavy decline following the passing of the dividend when the stock broke from 75 to 51. Colorado Fuel 44 1/4 is up about 5 points from the level of the last decline.

Near the close of the first hour the market paused and some irregularly developed on profit taking. The oils were again sold in fairly heavy volume and showed fractional declines, Marland dropping from 35 1/4 to 34 1/4. United States Steel above 109 was a good rallying point for the industrials and American Can above 131 showed a gain of five points above yesterday's low.

Albert Vogel Shot in Face

Supervisor Albert Vogel was shot in the face late this afternoon while busy in the Ulster & Delaware railroad yard unloading a freight car. He was lifting a bag from the car into his truck when the bullet hit him. He was hurried to the office of Dr. Frank L. Eastman on Broadway where the wound was dressed. It is said the bullet came from an upper window in a building near the freight yard. The police were investigating the shooting at the time The Freeman went to press.

Groom Is 29, Bride Is 81

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Norfolk, Va., Sept. 18.—Some time today a wedding ceremony will be performed here to unite John Edward Griffith, 29, organist in a Norfolk movie theatre, and Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Fray, 81, wealthy widow of John A. Fray, formerly of Washington, D. C.

Unable to obtain a marriage license in the Norfolk Corporation Court because of the disparity of their ages, the pair went over to Portsmouth and secured the necessary paper. Mrs. Fray, attired in black silk, with lace collar and her hair dressed so that her ears were visible, would not discuss the affair. The widow's appearance belies her 81 years. Griffith, however, declared it was a case of "true love" and that he had courted the widow for two years, after meeting her while playing in a Washington picture house.

"I don't have to look to Mrs. Fray for a cent," Griffith said emphatically today. "I have a good income and enough money to keep us both. I will stay right on my job at the theatre and we have rented a nice apartment and will live in Norfolk."

"No, we aren't going on a honeymoon," Griffith added. "Have to stay on the job at the theatre." Last month suit was filed in Raleigh, N. C., former home of Mrs. Fray, by a daughter, Mrs. Ethel Fray Wayland, 42, of Washington, to have a guardian appointed for her mother, but later it was withdrawn.

The complaint stated that the aged widow was in bad dotage and that young Griffith was trying to marry her to obtain her money, at first said to be a large fortune but later revealed to consist of $15,000 in securities.

Rather Muddled

The absent-minded professor, who had been attending a lecture all the evening, returned home very late and rather muddled. On entering his bedroom, he thought he heard some one move under the bed! "Who's under there?" he called out. "No one," replied the burglar. "Funny!" said the professor. "I could have sworn I heard some one there!"

Things begin to look better in Europe. Germany has paid the first installment under the Dawes plan and the French at Dortmund have sounded the recession.

The American public has been called forgetful and fickle, but nothing in America is so changeable as the upward or downward leaping temperature, particularly between seasons.

The heads of the Society of Mayflower Descendants are said to be worried because the membership has increased 710 in three years and now numbers 5,077. Unless the rate has long been dying out it is likely that there are several times that number of unknown descendants of the Pilgrims landing from that one small ship.

It is announced from the Treasury Department that the silver dollar is to be returned to circulation because of the expense of keeping paper dollars in condition. Surely such expense can be met by cutting down costs elsewhere. To weight the people down with clumsy "cartwheels" would inflict them with a burden next to intolerable.

Twenty years ago the New York Tribune expressed the fear that "the city will have to regulate automobile driving so as to make automobiles safer for the people who ride in them and safer for the people on the streets." If there was danger then, think of its proportions now! For then Henry Ford could not afford the price of a Thanksgiving turkey, and now through the multiplication of motorcars for the millions he has made himself the richest man in the world.

TERRORS OF FUTURE WAR.

The spirit of Hamlet's father assured the melancholy Dane that he "could a tale unfold whose lightest word would harrow up thy soul, freeze thy young blood, make thy two eyes, like stars, start from their spheres, thy knotted and combined locks to part, and each particular hair to stand on end, like quills upon the fretful porcupine." This masterful description, without detailed mention, of the horrors of hell—for the unhappy spirit asserted that by day he was "confused to fast in fires"—comes to mind when one reads of the unimaginable yet certain horrors of the next great war, for which chemistry, developed high explosives and the science of aviation are busily preparing. The latest blood-freezing intimations along this line come from the president of the American Chemical Society, who said recently at the sixty-sixth annual convention of that body:

Anyone acquainted with the later development of means of scientific destruction knows that the limit has not yet been reached and that in future wars no one will find a snug place where he may think he is safe or can escape the consequences. The largest and best protected cities, irrespective of their size or distance, will be exposed continuously to destruction and mutilation. There will be no way of safeguarding women nor children, nor the old or the infirm.

In other words, there will be no hole into which even the youngest or feeblest may crawl, no refuge for anyone from "the pestilence that walketh in darkness" or from "the destruction that wasteth at noonday," always every one, wherever he may flee, into cyclone cellars or mountain caves, will still abide in "the terror of the shadow of death." For even if the great guns fail, the dropping of high explosives and deadly poisons will follow to the remotest hiding place and let none escape. But is there nothing that poor mortals can do to forestall this universal rain of death and hold in chains the cyclopean Titans of destruction, the deadly monsters which our modern Frankenstein has cheerfully fashioned only to recoil as they behold them and fear to let them loose?

The president of the American Chemical Society thinks there may be "a remedy for these horrors" in "more of a plain, genuine, weekday religion rather than a Sunday religion of words." But to what extent can such a remedy be made effective in the world where relatively few seem to make their religion a matter of daily life and where perhaps a majority look upon religion as a mere myth? A remedy more within the range of possibility, perhaps the only remedy with promise of practical results in our time, is to be looked for in the enlightened self-interest of nations, nations ready to combine for mutual protection in organized effort to hold the war demon in check.

That Body of Yours

DAILY RESTS.

As you are living in the twentieth century, you think it ridiculous to suggest to you to try and live as did man in the early history of the race.

You admit that your body is the same as his, but to live by hunting and fishing is now out of the question. You must work daily, eat prepared foods, and live indoors at night at least.

This is true of course, and you must meet the requirements of our present civilization.

However there are certain points, that where it is possible, you should try to follow the idea at least, of our early ancestors.

One of the things he did was to work hard, and then to rest hard or rather well.

I'm not going to discuss the question as to whether you and I work as hard as our ancestors.

But what about resting? He knew how to rest and when to rest, and that was to rest when he needed it. That is such a simple proposition that you may be wondering at just what I'm driving.

In these days of hurry and excitement, the endeavor to get big production, to build a bridge or factory in a matter of so many days, rest, the necessity of rest, is entirely lost sight of.

What do I mean? Well, in some of these factories where production was the goal, certain experiments were tried.

These experiments were meant to increase or "speed up" production. Accordingly about eleven o'clock in the morning a rest of ten minutes was given to all the employees.

In the afternoon at two thirty, and again at four, ten minutes resting periods were given.

What was the result? Production was increased. The resting of mind and body during these three periods, thirty minutes in all, increased production nearly fifteen per cent all round.

Where the work was of an individual, or more interesting kind, the production increased about ten per cent, and where the work was mechanical or monotonous, nearly twenty per cent.

My point is that in every kind of work, where it is possible these short rest periods should be taken. You will not only do more work, but your body and brain will be the better for it, and your general view of life be more optimistic.

HUDSON-ESSEX PRODUCES 100,000TH CAR.

First of the big motor companies to better the volume of 1923 business, the Hudson Motor Car Company has produced and sold its 100,000th car for 1924. This compares with 88,188 Hudson and Essex cars for all of 1923. The 100,000th car was an Essex Coach.

With Hudson and Essex Coaches comprising seventy-five per cent of the entire business, Hudson has enjoyed a banner year. It is now the first six cylinder manufacturer to reach the six figure market in production for the year, and one of the very few manufacturers whose 1924 business has been consistently better than the 1923 volume.

According to Peter A. Black, local agent for the Hudson and Essex cars, from present indications the sale of the Hudson Super-Sixes this year will be about thirty-five per cent better than last year, and the sale of the Essex Six will be twice that of the 1923 popular four cylinder model.

Hudson-Essex sales have been large this year without the company having adopted any sensational selling effort and without any doling up or mechanical complication of the cars. The volume has been obtained primarily on the grounds of "closed car comforts at open car costs." Since July 1, balloon tires have been standard equipment.

TODAY WE CELEBRATE

AN IMPERIAL MADMAN.

It was on this date in the year 96 A. D. that the people of ancient Rome were freed from the worst tyrant and madman, aside from Nero, that ever disgraced the annals of the Roman Empire Domitian. And it was, as in many other cases, the hand of the assassin that rid the long-suffering populace of Domitian. He was the son of Vespasian, and the brother and successor of Titus, "the darling of mankind," who led the Roman army in the siege and destruction of Jerusalem but not one of the noble personal traits or administrative powers of these two great men did he show. He encouraged secret informers so that he might seize the wealth of those he caused to die, or whose popularity with the people he feared. At one time he invited the senate to a grand feast and caused them on their arrival to be ushered into a large hall, where to their horror, each wearer of the toga found himself gazing on a coffin with his own name inscribed on the cover. At length human patience was exhausted, and a conspiracy was formed in which even his wife and his nearest friends were concerned and he was stabbed to death in his apartment.

POLAND.

The first dismemberment of Poland, marking the beginning of the conspiracy to wipe out the ancient nation, was arranged 152 years ago today between representatives of Russia, Prussia and Austria.

About one-third of the entire kingdom was seized at the time, but this morsel only served to whet the appetite of the powers for more. The first dismemberment was the result of a compact between Frederick the Great of Prussia and Catherine the Great of Russia, in which Austria was invited to take part. Another partition of Poland followed in 1793, and two years later a third completed the work and swallowed up the entire kingdom, which then ceased to exist as an independent nation. Poland had long been distracted by a reckless and wasteful government and it fell an easy prey to the schemes of the imperial robbers.

PAULINA

Paulina was the wife of Seneca, the famous Roman philosopher. She insisted on sharing her husband's fate when he was condemned by the Emperor Nero. Her veins were accordingly opened at the same time, but, fainting from loss of blood, the tyrant Nero commanded her wounds to be bound up and conjured her to live. She survived her husband but a short time, leading a bitter and melancholy existence until her death in the year 68.

"THE TEN COMMANDMENTS" AT OPERA HOUSE

Cecil B. DeMille's triumphant picture masterpiece, "The Ten Commandments," which comes to the Kingston Opera House tonight for an engagement of three days, is said to be the sensation of two continents. With its tremendous appeal to all classes, creeds and nationalities, it is as popular in London as it is in this country. Soon it will be shown in Paris and Melbourne, Australia. The first part of this DeMille offering is a superb spectacle which shows Egypt at the apex of its ancient grandeur, the exodus of the Children of Israel from the land of captivity, their safe passage between the mighty walls of the parted Red Sea, and their arrival at the portals of the promised land.

The second or modern part develops the same theme in its application to the life of today through a thrilling dramatic story of love, devotion and self-sacrifice. In both parts are found the basic elements of drama—conflict. Never before in the history of stage or screen has there been told a story that so moves the human heart to its very depths. It has the wide sweep of an Homeric epic, the rugged strength of a Scandinavian saga, the sublimity of the Pentateuch.

As it is most fitting this mighty dramatic spectacle is enacted by a remarkable cast of stellar players, including Theodore Roberts, Leatrice Joy, Nita Naldi, Rod La Rocque, Richard Dix, Robert Edwards, Agnes Ayres, Estelle Taylor and Charles DeRoche. Dr. Hugo Rosenfeld's wonderful accompanying musical score will be played here by a symphony orchestra which is carried by the company on tour.

MILLIONS IN BACK PAY NOW IN SIGHT

Payment of millions of dollars in back compensation to disabled World War veterans depends upon the outcome of a controversy between the national rehabilitation committee of the American Legion and the United States veterans' bureau.

Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of the veterans' bureau, has issued preliminary instructions to field offices that payment of retroactive compensation to those persons whose cases have been presumptively connected with service under section 200 of the World War veterans' act of 1924, may not be made for any period before the date of the approval of the act on June 7, 1924. Watson B. Miller, chairman of the Legion committee, has taken issue with this view.

Mr. Miller declares that there is in the phrasing of the law a "definite suggestion of retroactivity in that the time a man acquired his disability is placed back within a period now some years remote."

No claims which have been connected with service by historical facts, wherein under the provisions of section 210 of the act compensation may be paid retroactively for one year prior to the filing of the claim, the amount depending upon the physical condition of the claimant during that period, are affected by the bureau's preliminary ruling. It was pointed out The Legion purposes, it was learned, to place upon the same status those claims which have now been connected with service through the operation of the "presumptive" clause of the new act.

The importance of the ruling can easily be recognized when it is stated that during the first month of operation under the presumptive provision 2,800 tuberculous, 2,500 neuropsychiatric and 250 amoebic dysentery cases, making a total of 5,500 claims, were connected with service and placed upon a compensable basis. These cases alone, at the hospital rate, it was declared, involve a half million dollars in compensation each month.

If the Legion wins its point, the benefits to the men involved would be enormous. The fact that the bureau has not yet issued a permanent regulation covering this point, although more than two months have passed since the passage of the act, is taken to indicate the possibility of a favorable decision.

New York Elks Praise Massachusetts Legion

Expressing appreciation of the courtesy of the American Legion in assigning a detail of service men for the assistance and accommodation of the visiting Elks in convention at Boston recently, the New York Elks sent a letter to General Edwards, commander of the Massachusetts Legion, as follows:

"I am sure you will be pleased to learn that the men conducted themselves admirably and made a very pretty showing in the parade. We received all along the line of march applause, and I feel that much of this was due to the fact that we had these men at the head of our line. The young men whom you sent were indeed fine examples of sturdy soldiery and American ruggedness. Signed, New York Elks."

Must Not Delay Filing Compensation Claims

Advice from the national headquarters of the American Legion at Indianapolis, urges all ex-service men not to delay in the filing of their adjusted compensation claims as a "safety first" measure. There is a provision of the compensation law, section 601, whereby only the face value of the insurance policy will be paid beneficiaries if the veteran dies before filing his claim, whereas, if the claim has been filed, beneficiaries receive the matured value of the policy. The Legion points out that, inasmuch as there are two veterans' deaths in the United States every time the hour hand passes from one hour to the next, there is real danger in careless delay in filing of applications.

Uncle Sam Reports to Legion on Insurance

The United States government, biggest insurance company in the world, is not maintaining the reputation of insurance companies as to profits, according to figures recently released to American Legion officials in Washington regarding the war risk term insurance. In May, 1924, the total amount of money received by the veterans' bureau in premiums on war risk term insurance policies was approximately $420,000,000. The total payments made by the bureau up to that time for permanent disability and death claims were more than $520,000,000. In addition, the government still has liabilities against it for unpaid installments of death and total disability claims of more than $1,000,000,000.

MISS FORKER IS OFFICIAL SOLOIST

Alma Forker, of Bakersfield, Cal., veteran of the Chemical Warfare Service of the United States army, descendant of Spanish Conquistadores and of Morgans of American Revolutionary fame and of the noted Lees of Virginia, will sing at the sixth annual convention of the American Legion in St. Paul, Minn., on September 15 to 18. She has just been selected by National Commander John H. Quinn from a list of forty applicants as convention soloist.

Sixty thousand veterans, it is estimated, will hear the California songbird, who, while war was on, thought that it was the duty of a young and able-bodied American woman to do more than sing for the boys in France and, so enlisted in the Chemical Warfare branch of Uncle Sam's army. Miss Forker found time from her military duties to sing for the soldiers, too. She became a familiar figure at camp and canteen.

Born in California, Miss Forker has an established reputation as a church and concert singer in her native state and also in New York city. Beginning her musical education with the study of the piano and becoming later an accomplished violinist, she went to Alma Forker.

New York to cultivate her natural vocal ability. While there, she filled numerous engagements in and about the metropolis. Returning to California, she has been teaching voice and filling concert engagements throughout the state.

The convention soloist is the only woman member of Frank S. Reynolds post of the Legion at Bakersfield. She is also president of the newly organized Bakersfield unit of the Legion Auxiliary.

Big Time Planned for Members of "40 and 8"

Spicy and full of pep will be the program which awaits the 25,000 members of La Societe des Quarante Hommes et Huit Chevaux, practically every one of whom is expected to attend the national convention held in connection with the American Legion at St. Paul, from September 15 to 18. The boxer society will live up to its reputation as the playground of the Legion, it is said.

Convention affairs will culminate for the Forty and Eighters on Thursday. That afternoon will witness the election of national officers and in the evening will be staged the great promenade at the Minnesota state fair grounds, where some 300 men will be initiated.

Proceedings will be enlivened in true Forty and Eight fashion by 15 Hommes-Chevaux bands. They will take part in the great convention parade Tuesday afternoon and will play the Forty and Eighters on their way to the depot to entrain for the doings at the fair grounds.

Sessions will be held at Junior Pioneer hall in the afternoon, so as not to interfere with the sessions of the Legion convention proper, it was announced.

Open hours will be the order of the day at all St. Paul clubs and social organizations for the annual convention of the American Legion, it has been announced. Special arrangements for housing, parties, athletic and aquatic sports and other courtship privileges have been made by the Y. M. C. A. and the K. of C. for the boys they served in 1917 and 1918.

Shriners, in addition to extending the facilities of their building, will conduct a series of automobile tours to points of historic, scenic and industrial interest in and about St. Paul for the various days of the convention. Distinguished guests and officials of the Legion will be housed at the Athletic and Minnesota clubs, where St. Paul people will be given a chance to meet them. At the Elks' club, the White Bear Yacht club, the Auto club and other civic organizations every effort will be made for the entertainment of the convention crowds.

Want 1925 Convention

Several invitations have been extended to the American Legion for its 1925 annual convention. Louisville, Ky., is seeking the convention with the support of the state department. Newark, N. J., is also after the honor of entertaining the Legionnaires. San Francisco, Cal., has extended an invitation for 1925, offering the use of its $2,000,000 Exposition auditorium. San Francisco is the second city in which a national convention of the Legion has been held, to extend a pressing invitation to the veterans to return.

LITTLE ORIOLE

The little Baltimore Oriole was very gentle and very tame and very good.

He was not afraid of anything. He remembered the time when he had dropped out of the nest when he had been trying to peep over it too far, and a little girl had picked him up.

She had been so charmed with his beautiful orange and black and gold suit that she had held him in her hands for a moment, and he had sat upon her finger and talked to her and she had fed him.

He had not been afraid of her as many a foolish bird would have been, he told himself.

He knew a friend when he saw one. Then she had put him back in his nest and before long his mother and his father had come back and had brought with them plenty of food.

But there was never too much food for them. No, the children had good appetites, but Little Oriole, as the parents called this one, had the biggest appetite of all.

"Never did I see such a child for eating," Mother Oriole said.

"Well, give it to him, it's good for the little bird," said Father Oriole.

"Yes," Mother Oriole said, "it will make him grow into a splendid, strong bird, and when we go off to the woods, and later when we go away for the winter, he will be a splendid young bird gentleman."

"But you are right, Mother Oriole," Father Oriole said, "the child certainly would eat us out of nest and home if we didn't keep at the market-jug pretty steadily."

"There is no resting for us!" Mother Oriole smiled at Father Oriole.

"Oh, it is a good thing," she said. "We feel better, too, when we are kept so busy."

"And oh, ever since I had that dreadful scare from Mr. Hawk I have said to myself:

"What does anything matter so long as I have my little brood safe?"

"What does it matter if I get tired or have to be kept very busy so long as my darlings are with me?"

"Ever since then I have said that many times to myself."

"Yes," agreed Father Oriole, "that is just what I think. I do not believe in making a fuss over a little work or having to rush a bit so long as those you care about are safe and sound."

"Then, too, we wouldn't like it if the children couldn't eat good meals."

"We'd be frightfully worried if Little Oriole said to us:

"Parents, I don't feel as though I wanted any supper today."

"No, not even the most delicious insect tempt me!"

"We'll certainly be worried if he said that, or if any of our darlings said that."

"We will never say that," Little Oriole said. And the others added:

"Never fear, dear parents, we will never say that."

So Mother and Father Oriole kept their children most beautifully nourished, and they grew into splendid, strong orioles.

They saw how Mother Oriole built her long, interesting, swinging nest.

They learned many lessons which some time later they would be teaching to a brood of their own.

And as their plumage became lovelier, Mother Oriole would nudge Father Oriole and would say:

"Don't they look magnificent? Were there ever any more beautiful children? But of course we mustn't tell them."

How beautiful they are; they might become conceited, though they really have too much sense for that."

And Father Oriole would nudge Mother Oriole and would say:

"Others may have reasons for being proud of their children, but surely we have every right to be the proudest parents in the world."

"That's the truth," Mother Oriole would say, again and again and again.

GAS BUGGIES—They Never Will Learn

Gloom and sadness are poisons to us, the origin of hysterics, which is a disease of the imagination caused by vexation and supported by fear.—Sevigne.

WHAT TO EAT

Salads of all kinds are never out of season. One may have a hearty one of fish or chicken, which will make the substantial main dish, or one of crisp, fresh green things, as well as fruits and nuts; any is appropriate at any one of the four seasons of the year.

Chicken Salad.—Take a pint of diced chicken, preferably the white meat; add one cupful of finely-diced, tender celery and a cupful of the tender heart of white cabbage, finely shredded, with a handful of blanched shredded almonds. Mix with a highly-seasoned salad dressing and serve on tender lettuce.

Fruit Salad.—Cut into dice three good-flavored apples; remove the pulp from three oranges. Blanch a cupful of almonds and shred them; dice one cupful of pineapple. Mix all of these ingredients and serve on lettuce with a mayonnaise dressing. Garnish with halves of walnut meats and candied cherries.

Sardine Salad.—Skin and bone a dozen sardines; add a cupful of mashed, hard-cooked egg yolks, two tablespoonsful each of chopped olives and celery, a pinch of dry mustard, and lemon juice to moisten. Mix and form into balls; roll in boiled rice and arrange around a mound of stuffed olives. Serve garnished with roses of mayonnaise.

Salmon Salad.—Take a can of salmon, removing skin and bones, and flake with a fork. Add a cupful of fresh-grated coconut, a chopped sour pickle and a cupful of finely-shredded crisp cabbage. Mix with a good salad dressing and serve on lettuce, garnished with quarters of ripe tomatoes.

Potato Turnover.—To two cupfuls of mashed potato, liberally seasoned with butter, beat thoroughly with one well-whipped egg. Spread in a buttered, hot frying pan, top with one-half cupful of minced ham and, just before taking up, cover with a cupful of cooked corn which has been well moistened with a rich tomato sauce. When hot, fold and serve garnished with parsley.

English County Has Its Own Salt Lake

Every one who has swum in a lake or pond as well as in the sea knows the extra buoyancy of salt water as compared with fresh. This effect of salt on water is demonstrated strikingly at Droitwich, the Worcester-shire spa, where there is water in which it is impossible to sink.

You can float on the water, sit on it, and even go to sleep on it, without fear of drowning. The better the swimmer you are, indeed, the worse you will fare, because the moment you try to strike out your feet fly upward, to give you an unpleasant emetic!

So high is the percentage of salt that the crystals completely coat the skin, unless drying is resorted to immediately on leaving the water.

Some of the cures effected by the baths are remarkable. Anemia, neuralgia ailments, and rheumatism sometimes yield as if by magic under the treatment, which is becoming increasingly popular.—London Answers.

Mocking Bird and Robin

To the South the mocking bird is what the robin is to the North. He is known as far north as British Columbia, but is seldom found nesting there, while those found in the southern United States live there the year round, writes a contributor to "Bird Lore."

The female builds her nest the latter part of March, lays her greenish-blue eggs, speckled with brown, early in April, and by May the eggs are hatched. A second brood is often reared by the same pair of birds. The mocking bird's back is ashen gray, his wings a brownish tinge with a large white patch, and his throat and outer tail feathers are white, with the under parts brownish white.

It is when the mocking bird works himself up into a passion of song that one realizes the wonder of his voice. He imitates the sounds of the woods and the other birds, but he improves on them.

Newest Aeroplane Beacon Throws Ray 150 Miles To Guide Night Voyagers

STATIONS on the night airways of the United States now include Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, which has just acquired a beacon similar to those being placed by the government in cities where the planes of the Air Mail Service stop on their trips across the continent. This searchlight, erected by the Washburn-Crosby Company on the top of their big receiving elevator, will make it possible for night flying aviators to locate Minneapolis landing fields at night with ease and safety. It is the largest searchlight ever erected in the Northwest and can be seen at distances varying from 75 to 150 miles, depending on the atmospheric visibility and the height at which the plane is flying. Automobileists travelling towards Minneapolis are also finding it valuable.

This new Sperry Beacon has 500,000 candlepower and its lens measures 3 feet across. With its carriage it weighs a ton and a half. And yet, owing to its construction, it can be operated and swung in any direction by one man.

A special generator set was installed to provide the current, as it requires 150 amperes at 78 volts. The work of installation was a tremendous one owing to the height from the ground of the Gold Medal Flour elevator roof on which it is placed. This 200 foot lift required the use of special hoisting apparatus. When the big light had reached the top floor it was necessary to cut a hole in the roof and pass it through by the means of a derrick. One of the most interesting features of the Beacon is the mechanism by which the light can be diffused over a wide territory. Ordinarily the light will be thrown into the air through a concentrated beam which, in a cloudless sky, can be picked up 150 miles away by an airplane seeking direction at night. The lenses can be almost instantly altered to throw a wider beam that will light up a place in the sky half a mile long and a quarter of a mile wide.

Edwin T. Chapman, Jr., president of the Minneapolis Aero Club said when the light was first operated, "This puts Minneapolis on the map so far as night flying is concerned."

All Cooks Look Alike

Boy Succeeds in Stock Breeding

Only Fourteen Years Old But Won
First Prize at Cattle Club Picnic
—Boys' and Girls' Clubs Valuable Training School.

In open competition with fifty mature breeders young Sandy Berry of Grapevine, Tarrant county, Texas, won first prize in the judging competition at the Texas Jersey Cattle Club picnic, recently held. This feat is rather astonishing and calls attention to the very useful work which a county agent may perform, and to the effectiveness of the Boys' and Girls' Clubs as a training school for progressive breeders and dairymen.

In the spring of 1923 Sandy's older brother bought a pure-bred heifer through the county agent and the American Jersey Cattle Club. Sandy, however, was not so fortunate and had to be satisfied with a grade calf. He had set his heart on having a pure-bred of his own, but it could not be managed that year, so he covered up his disappointment by trying his hardest to get his grade calf in good shape for show for the A. J. C. C. premium money at the Grapevine Community Show that was held in the fall of 1923.

At the same time he had a pure-bred pig and this he handled so successfully that he won fifty-three dollars in premium money when it was shown at the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show. Sandy's success with his pure-bred pig convinced his father of the value of pure-bred hogs of good type, and as a result Mr. Berry is now breeding hogs of this calibre. This success with pure-bred pigs made it possible for Sandy to purchase a pure-bred Jersey calf which he is now raising.

Since the boys became interested in club work, Mr. Berry has also undertaken to gradually replace his entire grade herd with Registered Jerseys, feeling confident that a new period of prosperity and progressiveness lies ahead.

It will be seen from this brief description of Sandy's success that at fourteen years of age he is an accomplished judge, and has made a splendid start as a successful breeder of pure-bred stock. And in addition his family has also taken up breeding of pure-bred stock; so after all it seems that the Boys' and Girls' Clubs are doing splendid work for both the present and the rising generation.

Busy Ant by No Means a Nuisance in Burma

Most people regard ants as a nuisance, especially in a garden or at a picnic, but the natives of Burma have found a use for them.

This country grows and exports sandalwood, one of the most valuable and beautiful timbers in the world. The greater part of every tree felled is useless, however, for only the fragrant scented heart has any commercial value, and to transport the whole log would make even that not worth the cost of removal.

So the trees, after being stripped of their branches, are allowed to lie where they have fallen. The soft, sappy wood, which is useless in commerce, attracts the billions of ants who infest the forest, and to whom it is a tit-bit. In helping themselves the ants help the sandalwood merchant, for they leave the hard heart of the trunk stripped of all its worthless integument, and thus do for nothing the work of many human laborers.

Race Horses Oddly Named

The odd names given to race horses are always interesting and invariably have reason, which is more than can be said of the names of famous gallopers of the early part of the Nineteenth century. Among these quaint names are recorded: "Jack Come Tickle Me," "Jenny Come Tye Me," "I Am Little-Pity My Condition," "Sweeter When Clothed," "Watch Them and Catch Them," and "Britons Strike Home." One wonders what the modern book-maker would make of these labels on a hot day. Probably the name which has given the fraternity most trouble in recent years was Volodyovski, which won the Derby in 1901.

The Plants & Flowers Know!

WE PLANTS and flowers had a blooming good time last winter after they installed the celebrated Thatcher Tubular Warm Air Furnace. In years gone by we withered and almost passed away, but now the splendid supply of moist fresh air makes us as happy in winter as though we were outdoors in spring. Take it from us, plants and flowers lead luxurious lives in homes heated with Thatcher Tubular Furnaces.

The Combination Chamber of the Thatcher Tubular Furnace conducts fresh air through heated tubes of the chamber and brings air to the right temperature. Write for illustrated booklet "Helpful Hints on Heating."

Coolidge Wants Facts First Hand

No Visitor Escapes His Desire For Industrial Information—Has Keen Mind For Actual Living and Working Conditions.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Dayton, O., Sept. 18.—President Coolidge's Labor Day address from the White House, in which he said that American wage-earners are living better than at any other time in our history, is, according to Frederick B. Patterson, president of The National Cash Register Company, of this city, based on an intensive study of actual conditions, on which the president has been engaged for several months.

"When I was in Washington a few days ago," says Mr. Patterson, "to present to the nation the largest flying field in the world, donated by Dayton's citizens, I was amazed at the eagerness the chief executive displayed to know all about labor and industrial conditions in the middle west. He wanted to know if Dayton industries were running full time; how the cost of living compared with the scale of wages; in short, his mind was keen for a general picture of living and working conditions."

"It was given to understand by those close to the president that no visitor to the White House from any section of the country, who has an important position in industry, or art, or journalism, or any public effort, escapes this desire of the chief magistrate for industrial information."

"It is for the reason that he is so well informed as to actual conditions that President Coolidge is so optimistic," says Mr. Patterson. "He has amassed a wealth of first-hand information. When it was my privilege to pass on to the president what business I had, I told him that it is good now and is steadily growing better. I pointed out that the middle west's wheat crop is probably the best ever grown, exceeding last year's crop by 119,981,000 bushels. At the average farm price of August 1, this crop has a value of $133,500,000 greater than the value of the 1923 crop. This will enable the farmer to re-establish his credits and to become a big factor in the buying market."

"But this," continued Mr. Patterson, "is only one indication of our natural trend toward prosperity. I was happy to tell the president that all of the industries of Dayton were prospering, and as to my own industry I was able to assure him that not only was the National Cash Register working full time, with a full force, but that though 1923 had been our banner year for sales, our 1924 business was smashing all records. I told him that of our 5,000 employees most of them owned their own homes and a great proportion of them rode to work in their own automobiles."

"With the Dawes-Young reparation plan actually working, and the evacuation of the Ruhr started, it takes no great vision to see a resurgence of foreign business which is bound to aid the prosperity of America."

"Money is plentiful; credits are high and unemployment is at a minimum. No man need be out of work. No one today fears the bugbear of presidential year—it always was an imaginary rather than a real ill—and one of the reasons for firm business confidence lies in the fact that our present prosperity and our bright future prospects are based on the products of our soil. That is real American prosperity, solid and well-earned."

"In conclusion I was able to assure the president that not for long years had all classes of industrial workers, manufacturers, employers, salesmen, managers, had greater cause for an optimistic outlook than right now. I am convinced that nothing can stay the forward industrial march of the United States, not even the prospects of a presidential election, the result of which is, in the public mind, a foregone and happy conclusion."

Infant Mortality Lowest for July

Lowest for That Month Ever Recorded in New York State—Several Communities Had No Deaths Under One Year.

Data issued today by the division of vital statistics of the state department of health show that the infant mortality for July was the lowest ever recorded in New York state for that month. This year there were but 51 deaths of babies under one year of age per 1,000 living births, while the July average for the five-year period 1914-1918 was 85. The lowest previous record for the month—55—was in 1923.

There were 20,517 births during the month and 1,052 deaths of babies under one year of age. If the infant mortality rate which obtained during the years 1914-1918 had prevailed, there would have been 1,744 deaths—almost 700 more than actually did occur.

Infant diarrhea formerly was the scourge of babies under two years of age, especially during the summer months. During July, 1924, it caused only 123 deaths, while the July average for the five years 1919-1923 was 439. This alone represents a saving of 315 lives.

Several cities and villages in the state with populations of more than 10,000 had the unique distinction of having no deaths occur under one year of age during the month of July, 1924. These municipalities were: Mount Vernon, Hudson, Ilion, Johnstown, Lockport, Oneida, Port Jervis, Rensselaer, Saratoga Springs and Tonawanda.

A GOWN OF DIGNITY—AND LACE

(By Eleanor Gunn).

The glow of a sunset which changes from yellow to rose, must have inspired many of the newest evening gowns—certainly the graceful one sketched. To the uneven hemline—decidedly longer front than back—has been added an embroidery of coral to the rich yellow lace which makes the gown—the coral being repeated in a girdle which carries out the curving hemline. How one hopes that the fan is coral too!

Headresses, it would appear, are a part and parcel of everyone's equipment for formality, and Paris reports indicate that earrings, which French women abandoned recently are once more being worn—and in new guises.

Of course bandeaux are useful as well as ornamental, since many a shingled head is being allowed to grow, and without the aid of a bandeau or artificial hair, it is extremely difficult to manage. When one wishes to assume a dignified mien, that, rather than a boyish one seems to be the desired quality.

The fact that great brilliancy characterizes many evening gowns is largely responsible for the air of effluence and of elaboration which permeates all shops where evening regalia is sold.

Colored metal laces are in a measure responsible for this effect. Agnos is one of the several who make fascinating uses of metal lace for gowns for the woman of memories rather than anticipation. There are, of course, many unique interpretations in lace with beading and paillettes.

VARIATIONS OF THE DIRECTOIRE THEME

Directoire details are subtly treated this season and are confined for the most part to street types. Detachable "coachman capes" are shown. Deep revers and double-breasted coat lines, all handled in a soft rather than an ultra-tailored manner, are items that stand out in this group. The double-breasted idea receives an added impetus from the preference of the Prince of Wales for this type.

The unbelted silhouette is given an entirely new flavor in several models that combine the raised waistline with a flounce at the base of the skirt. In dresses of this order, a guimpe introduced in contrasting color with perhaps a light-colored seam, contributes a short-waisted appearance. The flounce is placed below the knee and usually appears only in front, while the back

Frank Chance, former Peerless Leader of the old Chicago Cubs, is shown here in a photograph taken a short time before his recent death at his home in Los Angeles. Rev. Father Ripple, O. P. S. O., is national director of the Holy Name Society, before which President Coolidge planned to speak when the society paraded in Washington.

Silly Idea, Don't You Know!

The man in the dock was a regular customer at the local police court and he had spent quite as much time inside jail as out. His particular line was breaking into shops of the smaller tradespeople in the early hours of the morning. On this occasion he was charged with breaking into a jeweler's shop, and as he stood in the dock with a constable on either side the magistrate asked:

"Any witnesses?"
"Course not!" replied the accused with a sneer. "Why, you silly old fool, do you think that when I goes out to crack a crib I takes witnesses with me?"—London Tit-Bits.

HAS NEW DEVICE TO RECORD QUAKES

Greater Accuracy Is Also Promised by Savant.

Washington.—The Georgetown university seismological observatory, which in the last 13 years has given to the world first news of many earthquakes, now assures the public that its reports in the future will be even more dependable.

The university today has among its instruments a new seismograph, known as the Galitzin vertical seismograph, the only one of its kind on this side of the Atlantic.

The special features of this delicate piece of apparatus are magnetic registration and photographic recording, whereby the element of friction in the other types of machines is entirely eliminated. Accordingly, the machine will permit of the recording of many more of the world's quakes and permit of a more accurate interpretation of the writhings of a shaking earth.

Doctor Sieberg of the Jena seismological station places the number of quakes felt sensibly or instrumentally the world over from 9,000 to 10,000 yearly. Of these in the past only from 90 to 110 have been annually recorded of Georgetown. Father Francis A. Tondorf, director of the observatory, hopes that this number may now reach from 300 to 400.

When it first was founded in 1911 the Georgetown observatory had only one seismograph—of the Weichert type. It carried a stationary mass of 80 kilos. The rocking during windstorms of the south tower of the Healy building, in whose base the instruments were at first placed, necessitated their removal to a cave beneath the quadrangle.

Father Tondorf inaugurated the work at Georgetown when, in 1910, the International Seismological society requested the Jesuit order, with many colleges in the United States, to establish a chain of stations in this country.

Declares New Glands Give Sheep More Wool

Liege, Belgium.—Dr. Serge Voronoff, famous French surgeon, addressing a scientific congress here, claimed it would be possible to increase the yield of wool by applying his gland transplantation operation to sheep.

Although the operation cannot be performed successfully on all sheep, he said, he hoped to be able to create a special breed by operation on the direct descendants of a certain number of picked specimens.

The experiment was already being made, he announced, on a flock of 8,000 sheep in Algeria, and also on a number of goats.

Pilot Willing to Be Target for "Death Ray"

J., an experienced army pilot, who has come forward expressing his willingness to fly a plane into the path of Grindell Matthews' "Death Ray" and claims that the ray will not bring him down in his plane even at the mean height of 1,000 feet. He also states that an experienced flyer would not have his plane wrecked by the ray without some sort of a struggle.

Refugee Family Tells of Hardships in Mexico

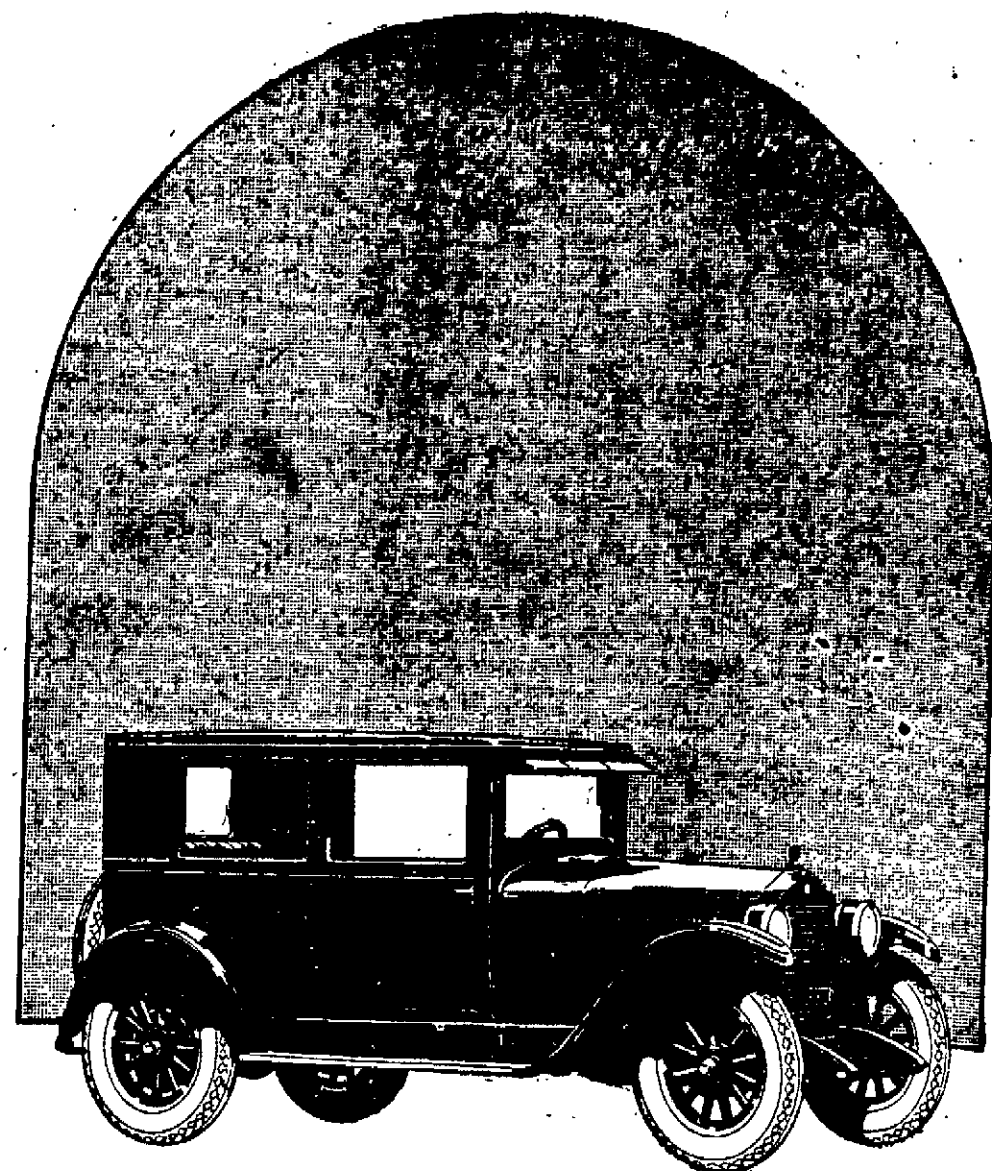

Norfolk, Va.—Deprived of their ranch and property accumulated in 19 years of hard work and forced by the Mexican revolution to flee penniless and without food, Wilhelm von Waldenfels and his family of four have arrived here en route to Germany.

They brought a harrowing tale of flight from their home in the interior of Tabasco, a 48-hour trip down the Grijalva river to Frontera in a dilapidated sailboat steered by a Mexican girl; of lost direction and the piling of the craft on the rocks and the fight against drowning and, finally, of the long journey afoot from Frontera to Vera Cruz.

At Vera Cruz the refugees, hungry and sick, had their first bit of good luck in the presence in the harbor of a steamer. They had no money, but Captain Grashoff, a fellow countryman, waved aside the question of passage.

Size of Alaska

United Alaska spreads over 17 degrees north and south, or as far as from New Orleans to Duluth, so that some variation of climate might reasonably be expected within its borders. And east and west the stretch is 58 degrees, or considerably more than from New York to San Francisco. Plenty of elbow room this way, too, for diversities. The total area is nearly 600,000 square miles, or one-fifth the size of the entire United States.—Mary Lee Davis in Scribner's Magazine.

MEN BET LIBERTY AWAY IN MAYA SPORTS COURT

Chichen Itza Throne Room is Also Uncovered by Staff of Carnegie Institution.

Washington.—Discovery of the reputed throne of the emperors of Chichen Itza, civil and religious center of the Maya, an aboriginal civilization that extended through Yucatan and Guatemala, and the unearthing of another court, where the god of chance reigned, have just been reported by the staff of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, engaged in excavating ruins in that region. Tlachiil was the name they called the game akin to modern basketball.

Dr. Sylvanus G. Morley, associated in middle American archeology with Dr. Earl H. Morris, is engaged in the Institution's program for excavation of the ancient Maya metropolis.

The Tlachiil court was composed of two high parallel walls, from 50 to 100 feet apart. A stone ring, parallel to the wall and at right angles to the floor, jutted out near the top of either wall. Through this ring the contending sportsmen sought to put a rubber ball by bouncing it from either wrist, elbow or hip.

In the heat of the sport the ancient gamblers were wont to wager their liberty, accepting slavery if they lost, says Doctor Morley's account. The ownership of vast estates hung on the outcome of the games. Quills filled with gold dust or trinkets of intrinsic value were the more common bets.

The ancient throne, recently brought to light, is likewise described by Doctor Morley's account. It is thirteen feet wide, seven feet deep and three feet high, elaborately and beautifully sculptured, he says.

"Its sloping sides are carved with a procession of gorgeously costumed warriors, wearing in and out among whom are long, sinuous rattlesnakes," Doctor Morley reports. "This panel is topped with a cornice composed of other intertwining rattlesnakes. The throne is painted in deep red, warm yellow, brilliant blue and vivid green, and when approached from the front, between the outer pair of sculptured columns, which are similarly painted, it must have presented a striking picture of barbaric splendor."

"The floors were of hard lime plaster, painted a rich red, and around the back and side walls runs a deep, broad bench with sloping back, where priests sat in solemn deliberation and, with the Itzan rulers seated upon the rattlesnake throne, settled the affairs of state," Doctor Morley points out.

Offers Explanation of "Sucker State"

Galena, Ill.—Illinois received its characterization as the "Sucker state" from the early settlers in and about Galena, according to historical records and anecdotes of Jo Daviess county.

The name was started soon after the arrival of groups of miners from various parts of the state, who worked in the lead mines near Galena. In 1804 Governor Harrison purchased a tract of land from the Sacs and Foxes, where Galena is now located. The opening of mines in these "lead lands," as the regions were called, brought many miners into the country.

It was the custom of the miners, especially those from the section of Illinois then fairly well settled, to work through the spring and summer and return home in the fall, staying through the winter in order to be better protected from the Indians.

From this action the name "sucker" was applied. The men who came "up" in the spring and went "down" in the fall were likened to the sucker, the fish which goes upstream to spawn and returns to its native haunts in the fall.

Insane Gunman Freed After Operation Cures

Oakland, Cal.—Antone Wroblewski is a free man today and owes his liberty to a surgeon's scalpel.

Wroblewski, charged with burglary, was considered one of the most dangerous criminals ever captured here. He was taken after a running fight in 1923, escaped, was recaptured in Portland, Ore., soon afterward and in 1924 was committed to the state hospital at Napa as insane. There surgeons found he was suffering from a mental condition which they believed could be relieved by an operation.

Six months ago Wroblewski went under the knife. The other day an assistant district attorney told the court where charges lay against the man that Wroblewski was sane as a result of the surgeon's work. The charges were dismissed and the court ordered a ticket purchased to take Wroblewski back to his home in Detroit.

Avoids Precipice, Hits Cliff

Paris.—To avoid falling, with 83 tourists, over a precipice on the route known as the Grand Corniche, between Nice and Monte Carlo, the driver of a motor charabanc, the brakes of which failed to act, turned the vehicle against the cliffs bordering one side of the road. The shock was frightful, most of the passengers being hurled against the rocks or thrown into the roadway. All were more or less seriously injured and were conveyed to the nearest hospital in private cars that happened to be passing. One of the tourists died later from fracture of the skull.

A Summer Disease

Two little boys were visiting in the country. There were a lot of green apples on the ground and the younger boy picked one up and bit into it. "Don't eat that, Jimmy," warned the other, "or you will get apple-plexy."—Boston Transcript.

No Regular Nail Sizes

Up until about the fifteenth century nails in England were sold by the hundred. Nails which sold for 10 cents a hundred were called 10 penny nails, those which sold for 6 cents, 6 penny nails, etc. When the prices changed the names persisted and, finally, came to be used to designate size, says the Detroit News.

The "d" is used as a sign of penny and is derived from the Latin "denarius." According to Webster's International dictionary, the explanation that "penny" in this connection is a corruption of "pound" is wrong. There are no regular standard sizes for nails by "pennies." For instance, the length of 10-penny nails varies, depending upon the kind of nails and the firm manufacturing them.

Ants Burrow Into Logs

Saws are not the only makers of sawdust. Ants are in the business, too. In the West, where many fallen logs are found in the forests, ants burrow their homes in the logs. Small piles of sawdust along a log indicate that ant home makers have been at work. The ants live in tunnels running deep into the logs.—Grit

CIVILIZATION AWHEEL

"MODERN civilization is civilization on wheels." Thus the reader of a recently published book is introduced to a historic narrative describing the evolution of transportation from the development of the wheel, the union of wheel and beast, the automotive engine, steamboat, to the automobile.

"Transportation is among the most fundamental of the needs of mankind," says the little book, and "every improvement in the moving of our bodies and our burdens from place to place has vastly increased the comfort of our race."

And it is the wheel that is the contributor of highest importance to the movements of all civilization: be they the wheels of the ancient oxcart hewn out of a solid tree, or the latest product of the experts in locomotion who design the 1925 models of motor cars and trucks. A rimless wheel, but a wheel none the less, locomotes the airplane and the ocean liner.

The illustrated brochure is entitled "Civilization Awheel, An Interrupted History." It is full of interesting historical data, replete with picturesque page and marginal drawings done in three colors and is now being distributed throughout New York and the New England States by the Standard Oil Company of N. Y., more popularly known to latter-day fame as Socony.

ROTATION'S INVASION

The prehistoric invasion of the field of movement by rotation instead of step-by-step progress is thus described:

"At first primitive man dragged or carried his burdens. Then domesticated animals yielded to the yoke, their trailing poles weighted with the hunter's kill. For loads too heavy for the back of man or beast the sledge came into being. And then wheels!"

Thus are we introduced to the wheel with the remark that none of the savage races ever invented wheels. It remained for the emergence from complete barbarism to be signified with the application of the scientific theory of the wheel to movement.

BEASTS AND WHEELS

Then through the development of the carriage and the wagon, the stage coach and the pleasure vehicle of one sort or another the union of the beasts to the wheels is traced. Along in the latter decades of the eighteenth century James Watt's observation of the power under the kettle lid marked the beginning of the end of what the Socony historian calls "horse power on the hoof." Steamships replaced sails and the puffing locomotive began the removal of Old Dobbin's pre-eminence in the fields of locomotion.

There is a curious fact, however, about automotive engines. Before any one had successfully developed an application of the expansive power of steam to transportation and locomotion the idea of the combustion engine had been formulated. Then it was remarked that the explosive force of gunpowder to the formation of energy to move things besides bullets and cannon balls might lend itself to practical application. Of course it did not, but the idea in the back of the mind of somebody so long ago as 1860 was the real genesis of the idea of the combustion engine. "An inventor of that day is said to have used gunpowder to create the required series of cylinder explosions," remarks the historian. And he continues:

BANG! BANG! BANG!

"That was a little too violent; but in 1820 an Englishman named Cecil had a hydrogen engine running at sixty revolutions a minute. Friction almost spoiled all the early engines. So the gas engine only really began in 1878, when Nicholas Otto, in Germany, invented his engine, with the so-called Otto cycle. That is where our modern automobiles started."

As we contemplate the developments of the last forty-eight years we marvel at the speed with which the crude ideas of Nicholas Otto, based upon the crude ideas of Cecil fifty-six years before, and the utterly raw thoughts of the advanced thinkers of 1890 have developed since Centennial year. How it happened is that:

LOCOMOTION AND LUBRICATION

"Of course, the gas engine could not have worked without two new discoveries, oil for fuel, which means gasoline, and oil for greasing to relieve the friction. The explosive quality of gasoline is very high. Yet the explosion can be controlled and its energies rightly directed. No other fuel has yet been perfected that can vie with gasoline for the internal combustion engine; just as no other mechanism has yet been developed that can vie with the internal combustion engine for driving the motor vehicle upon the highway. Truly this is 'the application of good sense to the common want,' which brings us back to the starting point and the introductory paragraph of the brochure where appears the quotation from Emerson."

Supplementing the story of transportation, the use of petroleum, making the future of machinery secure, forms the theme of the treatise that spells service as the climax of the discovery, the development and world-wide distribution of its unnumberable by-products, covering practically every phase of human needs.

D. A. R. Observes Constitution Day

Mrs. Alton B. Parker, State D. A. R. Historian, Reads Judge Parker's Noted Address—Social Hour Enjoyed.

Wiltwyck Chapter, D. A. R. of this city, observed "Constitution Day," September 17, as designated by President Coolidge, in a fitting manner. The down stairs meeting room and reception room, made bright with masses of autumnal bloom, were filled to capacity by members of the chapter and a few guests, when at 3 o'clock Mrs. Henry Van Hovenberg, regent of the chapter, extended greeting to the chapter members on their reassembling and welcomed cordially the guests present. In accordance with the custom of the chapter, the meeting opened with the oath of allegiance to the flag, recited in unison, all standing at attention. Mrs. Benjamin Johnston, accompanied by W. Whitling Fredenburgh at the piano, then sang two verses of "Star Spangled Banner," the assembly joining in the last two lines of each verse.

Mrs. Van Hovenberg then introduced Mrs. A. V. V. Kenyon, who gave a brief sketch of the first celebration of what would correspond to "Constitution Day," as given by the chapter. Founded in February, 1882, Wiltwyck Chapter, that same fall celebrated, as its first important chapter function, the anniversary of the ratification of the government of this state of the new constitution of these United States.

Mrs. Johnston then sang delightfully "Pastorale," by Morris, after which the regent introduced Mrs. Alton B. Parker, state D. A. R. historian, also chairman of the women's committee of the Sulgrave Manor project, who Mrs. Van Hovenberg said would address those present on "The Constitution."

After expressing her pleasure in being in the old, historic city of Kingston and the beautiful old Colonial chapter house, to address friends of Judge Parker, whom Mrs. Parker hoped to count as her friends, the speaker said her message would be threefold. First, she spoke in her capacity as historian of the D. A. R. of the state of New York, reminding her hearers of the splendid part which the D. A. R. has and is playing in the unearthing and perpetuating the matters and objects of historic matters of interest in the Empire State. Memorial markings throughout the state have emphasized historic matters of interest to a marked degree, and Mrs. Parker asked that at the present time and in the future Wiltwyck Chapter make sure to notify her of any such memorial markings made by the chapter.

Mrs. Parker then told briefly but interesting of the purchasing by England of Sulgrave Manor, the home of Lawrence Washington and the early forebears of George Washington the first president of these United States as a soil of alternative for the proposed celebration of one-hundred years of peace between England and America which was frustrated by the World War. She described the place and told of some of the gifts from America which Judge Parker and herself took over as contributions from America, and furthermore of the wonderful gift of $100,000 made by the Colonial Dames for the upkeep of the same. Much of the interest in the idea came from American women now residents in England, so that Sulgrave Manor is now really a bit of America in England, "old glory" flying over its roof tree while the Washington coat of arms including the bars and stars are over the door.

When it came to the speaking on the Constitution Mrs. Parker said that failing to have any vital message to give on that subject, she had taken the liberty to bring with her and to read parts of an address on that subject given by Judge Parker at the College of William and Mary, in Virginia three years ago and which is now a part of the Congressional record. The able address was not only timely but informing and interesting particularly in its resume of this country's achievements and participation in world history since the adoption of the constitution. On motion of Mrs. Weed a raising vote of thanks was given Mrs. Parker for her address and to the Judge for his contribution to Constitution Day.

After the charming singing of two short songs, "Dunna," by McGill and "The False Prophet" by Scott, by Mrs. Johnston, a very enjoyable social hour was participated in during which ice cream and cake were served by the entertainment committee of the Chapter.

MONTAGUE PIKE WANTED $400 AND WAS ARRESTED.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Sept. 18.—Montague Pike, 29, graduate of Yale and Sing Sing, was under arrest today in connection with the robbery of Miss Edith Bobe, beautiful modiste, and Robert L. Hague, marine superintendent of the Standpr Oil Company, of jewels and cash estimated at over $50,000 under circumstances similar to those surrounding the robbery and murder of "Dot" King and Louise Lawson.

Pike was arrested, charged with extortion, after it was charged he had telephoned Miss Irene Flaherty, Miss Bobe's secretary, and demanded $400, for which he promised to reveal where the stolen gems now were. Miss Flaherty communicated with the police.

Pike, who claims to be a graduate of Sheffield scientific school of Yale and is now employed by a New York contractor, admitted that he had served a term in Sing Sing prison for grand larceny but denied he had taken part in the Bobe robbery. Police are making a thorough investigation of his recent movements, comparing his finger prints with others they have secured at the Bobe home, where the robbers spent some time in a gay revel ransacking the place before Miss Bobe and her escort arrived to be robbed, and will see whether the negro maid, Miss Bobe or Hague can identify him. Miss Bobe has disappeared as the result, it is reported, of a mysterious telephone call which threatened her with the same fate as "Dot" King and Louise Lawson because of information she has given the police. She is presumed to have sought refuge in the home of a friend.

Old American Roadway

The old Spanish road, built across Mexico in the sixteenth century, is believed to be the oldest road on the North American continent. It was built in the form of a letter "X," with the lower point of the stem starting at Vera Cruz on the gulf. The northern prong touches the Pacific at San Blas and the southern tip at Acapulco. Because of this road the west-bound convoys from the Philippines were spared the dangerous navigation around Cape Horn. There is still evidence that this old trail was used by the Indians before the Spaniards broadened it from a pack-mule path to a highway.

Mussolini Hints At Retirement

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Naples, Sept 18.—Premier Mussolini today predicted his early retirement from office. In a public speech here, Mussolini said:

"I am a servant of no master but the nation I ask no reward but my conscience. It is enough that I can look forward to a none too distant date when I can lay aside my task, strong in the knowledge that I have accomplished something useful for the Italian people."

Champion Mean Man

A wealthy man visited a school and gave an address. When he was through he called a little boy up to him and said, "My lad, have you a purse?" "No, sir," "I'm sorry," said the rich man. "If you had I'd have given you half a dollar to put into it." The same man was scheduled to speak there again the following month, and when he came the boys were prepared for him; an empty purse lay hidden in every pair of trousers. And sure enough at the end of his speech he called another boy to him. "Have you a purse, little man?" he asked. "Yes, sir," "I'm glad of that," said the speaker. "If you hadn't, I should've given you half a dollar to buy one." The Patinfinder.

Safety for Milk Drinkers

Sterilization is a process by which the temperature of milk is raised high enough or maintained long enough to destroy all germs and spores. This method is seldom employed because it gives the milk a boiled taste. In pasteurization the temperature used is high enough only to destroy most germs including disease germs, such as those of tuberculosis and typhoid.

Matters Before The Surrogate

There was a hearing before Surrogate George F. Kaufman in Surrogate's court, Wednesday, in the matter of the judicial settlement of the accounts of Miss Percy Hazen, Miss Susan Hazen and Julian Burroughs, as executors of the estate of Aline Gordon of the town of Esopus. Paul Bechetti of West Park had filed objections to the passing of the accounts as filed, claiming he was entitled under the will to certain valuable jewelry among which were diamond rings, also to silverware. After hearing the testimony, Surrogate Kaufman sustained the claim of Mr. Bechetti as being valid and issued a decree to be entered accordingly. Maurice W. Billings was attorney for the executors; John G. Van Etten for the objector.

MR. DRAKE'S FAMILY

OLD Mr. Drake was thinking very hard, for in his family he had one duck that had only one duckling. "She gives more time to that one than the others give to their whole brood," said Mr. Drake. "Now, something must be done or she will never lay any more eggs."

"Dicky Duck is such a delicate child," explained Madam Duck when old Mr. Drake told her to let Dicky find his own worms and food. "He has to be looked after very carefully, Mr. Drake. I am sure you can see he is not at all like other ducks—quite different."

"Yes, he is," said Mr. Drake to himself as he walked away, "and if I do not take matters in hand he will never be like other ducks. And that would be a pity, for I think Dicky should make a fine drake some day to take my place."

"Your Son is One to Be Proud of, Madam Duck."

And then Mr. Drake did some wise thinking, and the next morning he told all of the ducklings that the one who found the biggest worm should lead in the swimming on the pond and, besides, he should have a dish of mush all for himself.

"Of course Dicky Duck cannot be in the contest," said Madam Duck. "He is not strong enough to do hard work. You see if I am not," said Dicky, and off he waddled with the other ducklings before his mother could stop him.

It was Dicky Duck who won the prize and his mother was so proud that she bragged about it all around the yard. But the next morning she was so worried for fear he had overworked that she made him sit in a nice mud puddle while she hunted for his food.

"What are you doing there?" called out old Mr. Drake when he saw Dicky sitting all comfortable. "Why are you not hunting for worms?"

"I worked so hard yesterday that I am tired," said Dicky Duck.

From under his wing old Mr. Drake took a switch he had cut and said: "If you do not wish to know how this feels across your back and around your legs you begin to waddle, and waddle fast. The next time I see you taking any food that your mother has found I shall let you find out just how a nice willow switch feels as well as looks."

Dicky waddled away, and when his mother returned with a fat worm for her only child wise Mr. Drake said: "You son is one to be proud of, Madam Duck, and he wishes me to tell you he can earn his own living now, and you are not to bother again getting worms or bugs for him."

"He is ashamed of sitting around while you work, for the other ducklings think he just happened to find the biggest worm yesterday, and it was luck, not because he was so smart. And now he wants to show them they are mistaken."

"An I will tell you something, madam: the farmer has looked in your nest several times lately, and if you wish to live to see how smart your son really is, my advice to you is to attend to egg-laying and let Dicky show how clever he is."

Madam Duck swallowed the worm she had for her son and looked after Mr. Drake with wide-open eyes. But she waddled off to the duck house and found her nest, for she knew Mr. Drake was a wise old bird and there was truth in what he said.

"I managed that rather cleverly, I think," said Mr. Drake as he waddled toward the pond. "I shall have no more trouble with either of them, I feel sure."

The Why of Superstitions

By H. IRVING KING

BITING INTO SNAKES

INVESTIGATIONS of the American Folklore society show that there is a superstition general throughout the United States that biting into a living snake will insure sound teeth for the one who does the biting. The black snake is generally indicated but in some sections they prefer a rattlesnake. The same superstition prevails in Canada. The pedigree of this superstition is easily traced. It is a survival, almost unaltered from its original form, from the remotest ages. In the folklore, religions, myths, mythologies—what you will—of the ancients the serpent appears prominently. With regard to the superstition under consideration we have to do only with one of the many attributes assigned the snake by men of olden times. He was particularly calculated to transfer his own characteristics to man by the magic of contact. Therefore those who ate a snake acquired many of the snake's accomplishments and powers.

Democritus, writing about 2,300 years ago, mentions the fact that one who ate of a snake could understand the language of birds and Saxo Grammaticus, the Dane, writing as late as the Thirteenth century, mentions the ability to understand the language of animals as one of the many powers obtained by human beings by eating snakes.

This belief lingers today in parts of Germany and Bohemia and down to the Nineteenth century it was a common belief in Scandinavia that wisdom was obtained by eating snakes.

In short from the Red sea to the Arctic the belief in the efficacy of snake eating prevailed in remote antiquity and lingers today in the form of popular superstitions, some of which have found their way to these shores.

Now snakes have remarkably good and effective teeth, and if they are broken off, or fall out, they renew themselves. So, naturally, if you chew a snake along his back—the process recommended by the superstition in question—you obtain, by that branch of sympathetic magic known as the magic of contact, firm and lasting teeth yourself.

Facts about your name; the history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day, lucky jewel

GWENDOLEN

GWENDOLEN, which has long been the victim of satire and the supposed product of affection in this country, has really the noble and most dignified of origins. It is one of the appellatives of the round table, and is indissolubly associated with all that is finest in romantic history. The name comes from the Welsh, and means "fair-browed." All the Gwendolens of history have been radiantly beautiful.

The first famous Gwendolen, according to the "Brut and Geoffrey" of Monmouth, was the daughter of Corineus, duke of Cornwall, and wife of Locene, son of the original Brutus. He deserted her for the sake of a fair German captive and she made war upon him, in the course of which he was killed, and Estrild and her daughter, Sabrina or Avern, made prisoners; whereupon the vengeful queen caused both to be drowned in the river which was afterward known as the Severn.

There is a Welsh saint named St. Gwendolen, who was the famous "Gwen," mother of Caradog Freichfras, the excellent Sir Cadoche of King Arthur's round table. There was also Gwendolen, the beauty of Arthur's court, and it was she who is said to have possessed the golden chess board upon which silver men played of their own accord. In Wales the daughter of the last native prince was so called, and for that reason, her name will always continue in popularity there.

Onyx is Gwendolen's talismanic stone. It is said to protect her from evil and disease, and to cool anger if worn about the neck. Thursday is her lucky day and 5 her lucky number.

Smith Expected To Decide

New York, Sept. 18.—Governor Alfred Smith was expected to arrive from Albany late today to attend a conference of the executive committee of Tammany Hall at which, it was reported, he might make known his final decision as to whether or not he will accept the nomination for another term.

Norman E. Mack, Democratic national committeeman, who announced in Albany yesterday that the governor would be candidate is accompanying him.

Judge George W. Olvany, leader of Tammany, said today that the meeting was merely a routine meeting to make final arrangements for the departure of the Tammany delegation for Syracuse on Wednesday.

LIVY MANUSCRIPTS HAD NOT BEEN FOUND.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Naples, Sept. 18.—The "great Livy bubble" has burst. The "most stupendous literary discovery" of modern times wasn't a discovery at all, it was merely a hope.

It was announced today that Professor Di Martino Fusco, who had been hailed as the discoverer of the actual manuscripts of Livy's history of Rome and of a life of Christ written several years before the actual birth of Christ, has admitted to government officials he had not found the tomes.

Professor Di Martino Fusco, who has established a world wide reputation as a savant, told government officials he only hoped to find the manuscript later after he had been able completely to translate certain fourteenth century documents he had found, in which mention was made of the missing manuscript.

After examining this document, government officials announced it referred only to those portions of Livy's history of Rome, dealing with the Carthaginian, Punic and Gaelic wars that are known to every student of Latin, and that have been translated into nearly every tongue in the world.

Pedley's Team in Special Match

Believe Winning American Polo Team Was Chosen From Social Register—Pedley, Listed as Reserve Player, Is Cause for Comment.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 18.—Although members of the polo committee have denied the implication at every turn, thinly veiled innuendoes to the effect that the victorious American international team was selected from the pages of the social register as much for its ability to play, had gained some credence today. The charges revolved around the name of Eric Pedley, dashing Californian, who was named as a reserve player in spite of the belief in some quarters that he deserved a place on the team. Snobbery is said to have been an abiding factor in the relegating of Pedley to the background.

Snobbery is also said to have effected the decision to permit Pedley to appear in a special match against the British on Saturday, a match in which nothing will be at stake beyond the ordinary desire for victory.

Louis Stoddard, chairman of the committee, took emphatic exception to the story in question today. By way of rebuttal, he said among other things:

"Pedley undoubtedly is a great polo player, perhaps the most promising of the younger generation of players. Yet he lacked experience in international competition and experience counts almost as much as skill in these matches. He is just coming to the peak of his skill as indicated in the 1924 handicap list, which rates Pedley at six goals. Milburn and Hitchcock are rated at ten goals each, Stevenson and Webb at nine goals each and Strawbridge at eight. In other words, the handicap committee considered Pedley the inferior of the others named as late as January last. He developed amazingly in the present season, of course, and in another year or so, it is probable that he couldn't be kept off any team. As it is, I doubt very much if he could have played better polo in the international matches than any of the players named."

Mr. Stoddard did not touch on the delicate matter of whether Pedley's team had been chosen for the special match as a sop for his vanity, as intimated in the reports circulated. These pointed out that Midwicks, of which Pedley is a member, had been selected for the match in order that Pedley might try his skill against that of Luis Lacey. Those holding this view were inclined to believe that Lacey has been advanced in the special team from back to number 3, where he will come into direct contact with Pedley, who is number 2 for the Midwicks.

Other members of Lacey's team, to be known as the Hurricanes, are Colonel Neville, number 1; Stephen Sanford, Jr., an American, number 2, and Major Vivian Lockett, an English internationalist, at back. The Midwicks hold the national junior title, and in addition to Pedley, are composed of E. G. Miller, number 1, A. P. Perkins at number 3, and Carleton Burke, referee of the international matches, at back.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

K. H. S. Track Team Practices

John Clarke, captain-elect of the Kingston High School track team, issued a call Tuesday for men interested in track. The members responded very well to his call, and the first practice on Wednesday was successful.

Clarke is planning to have three practices a week, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. These workouts will consist of short jogs, some sprinting and some field work. Little later in the fall, the captain hopes to develop a cross country team, which if possible, will compete with some of the nearby high schools.

There are nine men on the squad who ran for the school last year: Louis Caswell, a broad jumper; Alfred Coleclough, Fred Clark, John Clarke, Louis Epstein, Edward Hiker, all sprinters; James Hooper, John Scanlon and Ernest Smith, distance runners.

By getting these men into condition this fall and keeping them training during the winter Coach Dunn hopes to put out a good, snappy track team next spring.

Prospects for a most successful year are as bright as they have ever been at the beginning of a new season. Those who are closely interested in the organization expect great things to be accomplished, and are optimistic about the club's success this coming year.

Last year, the organization, with the largest membership in its history enjoyed a most successful season. This year, in spite of a slight decrease in its membership, the club is expected to surpass former standards especially along social and educational lines. It is increasing the social and educational benefits offered the members and at the same time continuing the support of athletics.

All members who are interested in the organization's welfare and are willing to take an active part in helping make the Kingston Young Judaea Club a real live organization are requested to be present tonight at eight o'clock at the Club Hall. A social hour will be enjoyed following the meeting.

TALK DEMPSEY-GIBBONS AT MADISON GARDEN

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 18.—Reports were in circulation today to the effect that Jack Dempsey might defend his title against Tom Gibbons in a fifteen round bout during the winter season at Madison Square Garden. Tex Rickard would neither deny nor affirm the report beyond stating that if Dempsey did appear on a Garden card, he would have to work on a percentage basis.

"If Dempsey boxes for me indoors, he must work on a percentage basis," Rickard said. "This goes for all champions. The day of the big guarantee is over."

Dempsey last appeared in the Garden against the late Bill Brennan four years ago. He was guaranteed $100,000 and Rickard is believed to have lost money on the bout.

TAGGING ALL THE BASES IN THE MAJOR LEAGUES.

The Yanks snatched a double-header from the Browns, 7 to 3 and 8 to 7, and jumped into a tie for the lead. Hoyt Bencher in the first game and Pennock saved the second for the Champions after Bush crammed.

Walter Johnson won his thirteenth straight for the Senators, trimming Cleveland 3 to 2. McNeely's single did the dirty work.

The Athletics dug Detroit's grave a little deeper, scoring 4 runs in the ninth to win by 9 to 8. A rally by the Tigers fell short.

Charley Robertson had the honor of pitching the White Sox out of last place, the Pale Hose shoving the Red Sox into the cellar as they crawled out. Score, Chicago, 2; Boston, 2.

"Healthy" Delights

anybody knew how big the Dairy-men's League was, there was a chorus of "No, ma'am's" which everybody expected. Then she explained that if everybody in Kingston owned a cow that herd would furnish a large amount of milk, but the Dairy-men's League was three and one-half times as big as the Kingston cow owners would be.

The Dairy-men's League was organized to sell milk, of course, but it was organized also to see that boys and girls used milk and thus become healthy.

League Offers Prizes to Pupils.

The Dairy-men's League wanted every boy and girl who heard "Healthy's" talk to write a letter to him, telling why boys and girls should drink milk every day, and a prize of $10 would be given to the boy or girl who wrote the best letter, and a prize of $5 to the boy or girl who wrote the next best letter. She hoped every boy and girl would write a letter.

"Will you write?" she asked in conclusion.

There was a unanimous answer: "Yes, ma'am."

"Healthy's" Health Talk.

"Healthy's" Milk Clown, came come bounding in the room as soon as the introduction was ended. He appeared in typical clown make-up, his costume being a handsome one of yellow and blue satin. His happy, jovial face, was painted in the most approved clown fashion, and he carried a basket carefully covered, a quart bottle filled with milk and a large card designed to look like a bottle of milk.

There was a roar of laughter from delighted pupils as "Healthy" put down his basket and bottles and glancing around the room commented to himself: "My! look at all the boys and girls—boys and girls everywhere! whichever way I look, boys and girls! some of them mighty good looking boys and girls, too! All the boys and girls here would drink a lot more milk than one cow could give. How many of you boys and girls drink milk?" Every hand in the room, in which pupils were seated two to a seat, was raised.

Coffee and Tea Drinkers.

"How many of you boys and girls drink coffee?" he asked. At first, only half a dozen hands were raised, but under urging from "Healthy" that they ought to tell him the whole truth, the upraised hands increased in number until there were about seventy-five hands in the air.

"Now everybody who drinks tea, raise your hands," he asked, and the number of upraised hands was even larger than for the coffee drinkers. In many cases, the same hands were raised as before.

Just at this time, when it looked as though the health talk was only of the usual garden variety which is forgotten even before it is given, "Healthy" discovered that one of the fingers on his left hand was missing, and began a comical search for it, which finally led to its discovery in the big covered market basket.

"A lot of things are in that basket," he commented, and interest focused on the basket.

The Little Builders.

"Do you know what happens to you when you drink a bottle of milk?" he asked. "Milk makes strong boys and girls. It starts a lot of busy builders in you, and now I'm going to show you where those builders come from in this bottle of milk, only I'll use this big pasteboard imitation bottle."

The first little builder produced by "Healthy" from the bottle was a representation of a little girl, who he drew out of the top of the bottle. "Her first name is Sally," said "Healthy," "but does anybody know her other name?" Nobody knew. "Her last name is 'Sugar,'" he said. "Sally Sugar—that is her name. You must have sugar in your body to grow big and strong. There is Sally Sugar's home, in the bottom of the bottle," and turning the bottle around, he fastened "Sally" to the portion of the bottle she occupies.

"The second little worker is 'Lillie.' Her second name is 'Lime.' 'Lillie Lime' is a good worker. Lillie lives in the skim milk. You must have lime working in your system to be healthy and strong."

"Next comes Viola, but her last name is longer than the others and sometimes a person doesn't remember her last name, but it is easy when you remember all the names together. Viola's last name is 'Vitamins.' Viola Vitamins lives in this part of the bottle," (indicating the part where the cream on the bottle of milk begins).

"Viola Vitamins lives in the cream," he explained, "and dabbles her feet in the skim milk. Don't forget where she lives."

The next little worker who comes out of the bottle is Fannie Fat. She lives in the cream at the top of the bottle.

"You girls must not think all the builders are little girls, because they are not. The next builder is a little boy—Pat. His full name is Pat Protein, and he lives down there, below the cream."

"Every time you drink a glass of milk, those little builders go right to work."

"Answering 'Happy's' Questions."

"What does Protein do in your body?" asked "Happy."

Only one pupil—a girl—answered. She said protein makes muscle.

"Why do we want muscle?" asked "Happy."

A boy who had been shoved out of the way by a bigger boy before school assembled, when the boys of the entire school were crowding around Lou Merit of the Pennington Stadium while he was adjusting his camera for the photograph to be taken later, answered the "Muscle" question promptly.

"To fight," he said.

"Not unless we have to fight," said "Happy." "But muscle lets us knock home-runners instead of batting fouls, and, by the way, does anybody know who is the champion home run hitter in the United States?"

The answering chorus was unanimously made up of boys' voices: "Babe Ruth," they shouted.

"What do the vitamins do in your body?" asked "Happy."

There was a variety in the answer in chorus.

"Why would you put gas in your Ford?" he asked. The answer was unanimous:

"To make it run."

"What part does Lillie Lime play in your body?" he asked. "What part does it affect?"

Everybody answered, "Bones."

"Lime makes strong and healthy bones and strong and healthy teeth," said "Healthy."

"Boys, Girls and Cats."

"Now think what happens to all these little builders when you drink tea and coffee. The little builders go to sleep. When they sleep, they do not work. When they are not working, you do not grow."

"How many boys and girls have a cat at home?"

There were many upraised hands.

Asked what the cat and kittens drink, everybody replied, "Milk."

They all said they did not give tea or coffee to the cat or kittens, and if cat or kittens went to a saucer of tea or coffee, they would only put their nose in and then went away.

Nature taught the cat and kittens that tea and coffee will not make them grow," explained "Happy."

"But there are a lot of you boys and girls who will do what your cat won't do. Take the cat's advice and leave tea and coffee alone."

"Mr. Coffeepot, Mrs. Teapot and old Mr. Catch-cold will all be troublesome if you don't leave tea and coffee alone. And speaking of Mr. Catch-cold, what do you do with your windows when you go to bed at night?"

The answering chorus of "Open them," indicated that the pupils of School No. 8 have been well trained in regard to home ventilation.

"Happy" advised the boys and girls to drink a quart of milk a day.

What Was in the Basket.

"Mamma put up a good lunch for me," explained "Happy," as he opened the big covered market basket. "Let us see what is in it."

The first vegetable taken out brought out the chorus of "carrots."

The question whether they were good to eat brought the unanimous response, "Yes."

Spinach was identified and also pronounced good to eat. Asked what part of the body spinach affected, everybody answered, "the blood," and asked what spinach supplies to the blood, everybody again answered in unison, "Iron."

Turnips was also identified and given approval.

So, also, was grape fruit.

"Viola Vitamins' twin-sister lives in grape fruit," said "Healthy," "and she is a good builder, but not as good as Viola, who is found in milk, because Viola's sister only stays in your system twenty-four hours."

The banana and beet met with ready identification and approval.

A big cucumber—almost big enough to be a prize winner—a fair—caused a division of opinion among the boys and girls as to whether it was good to eat. Finally the majority of voices said "No."

Then "Healthy" explained how to use the cucumber: Peel it carefully, slice it or chop it fine and put in cool water; then add salt and pepper and stir it all until everything is mixed together; do this work only in the kitchen, and when everything is mixed, dump the mixture in the ash can, but don't put cucumbers in the mouth or stomach.

The tomato was approved for eating by everyone.

How to Eat Doughnuts.

"Healthy" carried on an interesting line of talk to himself as he looked in the basket again. There it was, and it looked fine—a great, big, round, fat—

There were many guesses, but all were wrong.

What "Healthy" took out of the basket was a doughnut.

Was it good to eat? There was an almost equal division of opinion, and every boy and girl expressed his or her opinion in the loudest voice possible.

"That boy wants me to give it to him, if I don't eat it myself," said "Healthy."

"But I don't believe he knows how to eat a doughnut. The right way is to sprinkle a lot of sugar over it, and then eat the hole and throw the rest of it away. Don't eat doughnuts any other way."

One Kind of Candy.

"Healthy" next brought to light some candy, and it reminded him of boys who had been spending one or two cents a day for candy—any kind, as long as it was candy.

The boys would take the candy to school, said "Healthy," and they would put it away in a dark corner of the desk—a good, safe place—teacher wouldn't know it was there. Wouldn't she, though? Why, teacher could always tell when there was candy in a boy's desk; she could tell by the expression on his face.

A little chocolate eaten after dinner was all right to be eaten, but not the rest of the candy.

Eating Between Meals.

"Healthy" gave an excellent imitation of a girl going home from school, finding her mother in the kitchen and asking for a piece of pie and a piece of cake.

"When you go home and want something to eat—either you boys or girls—don't ask for pie or cake, but instead ask Mamma for a bowl of milk and some brown bread—remember the kind of bread."

"I've seen some Mammams and Pappas take the bottle of milk, and pour the cream from the top into their coffee and then hand the skim milk to the children to use on their cereal. Mamma and Papa were using all of little Fannie Fat, and then chances to one they didn't need Fannie for themselves because they were too fat already. So if they do that in your home, ask them please to shake the bottle this way, before they pour milk in their coffee, so the children can get some of little Fannie Fat, too."

Growing Healthy and Strong.

"Take 'Healthy's' advice: drink milk every day, eat vegetables and fruit every day, clean your teeth every day, take a bath every day if you can, but anyway, wash your body every day and take a hot bath at least once a week, and sleep with your window open. That is the way to grow healthy and strong."

Some day President Coolidge and the presidents who come after him will die, and the United States will be looking for a new President. Did you ever hear of the people picking a President who was puny, undersized, weak, unhealthy, without iron in his blood, without color in his face? No! The United States wants healthy, strong men for Presidents.

"And the President will want a wife, a wife who some time was a little girl like you girls here. The President's wife is an important woman, and she must have health; she must have a good color in her cheeks, not the kind you put on, so, but good red cheeks that show health."

"And who knows but the President and his wife might come from this school? 'Healthy,' the Milk Clown, hopes so."

"Healthy's" Milk Songs.

At the close of his talk, which occupied about twenty minutes, "Healthy" asked the boys and girls to join him in singing "Healthy's" milk songs, copies of which had been distributed.

The boys and girls of every school in Kingston, public and parochial, are familiar with the tunes to which the songs are sung, and under "Healthy's" leadership, every boy and girl in all the schools during the week has displayed to the best advantage the musical education they receive, and in every case the songs have been sung with a vim and vigor that denoted the greatest enthusiasm.

Fur Raisers Fear Eagles

The bald eagle of Alaska has a price of $1 on his head, but now fur farmers are confronted with a new menace, a Seward (Alaska) dispatch to the New York World states. Golden eagles have made their appearance along the coast. The bounty act passed by the last territorial assembly only specified bald eagles, so no bounty can be collected for the golden variety.

A golden eagle with a wing spread of seven feet was killed recently by George C. Cotter. An eagle with so much aerial power could easily carry off a full-grown blue fox.

The eagles are now actively engaged in chasing rabbits. Should the bunnies become scarce the blue fox puppies would be the next prey of the eagles, declare fox farmers.

Ten-Mile Skyrocket

An American scientist, Dr. Robert H. Goddard, who four years ago announced his scheme to fire a rocket to the moon, 230,000 miles away, will make a preliminary test this summer with a rocket that may ascend ten miles.

"The contrivance will be about five feet high and six inches in diameter," said Doctor Goddard. "It will be loaded with a series of explosive charges which will be ignited at predetermined intervals in the flight of the projectile, each giving a powerful kick to accelerate the rushing motion through the air."

"On the success of the experimental projectile may depend my effort to reach the moon."

Flyers Fly From Muskogee

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Muskogee, Okla., Sept. 19.—The around the world flyers hopped off at 12:26 p. m., central standard time for Dallas, Texas. Threatened rain delayed the start.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Sept. 19.—Activity in the stock market was centered today in a small number of specialty stocks and high priced industrials in which pool interest is the dominating factor. These "personally conducted" stocks made wide openings at the start of the market and in a short time ran 3 or 4 points ahead of the previous closing levels. Industrial leaders like Steel Common, American Can, etc., were not disposed to follow, though the general tone of the market was strong and most of the price changes were upward.

The weekly federal reserve bank statement showed further decline in rediscounts but an increase in bills purchased in the open market. Time money rates have been slackening
this week and call money is available at below the official 2 per cent quoted on the stock exchange.

Oil stocks have been holding firmly all week, but further liquidation today in the Standard Oil and large independent oil stocks resulted in fractional losses.

Announcement that all of the Canadian Pacific stocks formerly held by the German government had been sold stiffened the market for that stock and it moved to 148 on heavy sales. Northern Pacific and Great Northern were also active and fairly strong. In the specialty group, Worthington Pump continued its sensational rise, and at 38 showed a gain of 8 1/2 points over yesterday's low.

Several unsuccessful attempts were made to batter down the oil stocks in the wake of the continued slashing of crude oil and gasoline prices all over the country. The big eastern distributors, including the Standard Oil Companies marked down retail prices to below 20 cents a gallon today as reports of "distress" gasoline on the western market and flooding of storage facilities in mid-content reached the financial district. Standard Oil stocks were irregular and some of the independents which led the advance earlier in the week retreated rather easily. Marland at 34 1/2 was down a point from yesterday's high and Phillips at 32 showed a loss of 1 point from the high of the day.

Trading broadened out in the fourth hour and buying of the industrial leaders in good volume resulted in a higher price level throughout the whole list. The thinness of the market for many stocks was shown in the sudden declines and advances in prices on small volume of sales. The floating supply of some of the specialty stocks is small and efforts to cover large commitments generally result in sharp rallies. On this indication the bulls seemed to have the better of the argument today.

Instead of showing contraction by reason of the heavier demands of industry and agriculture, the money market has added to its supply of loanable funds and time money rates were easier today. Cotton prices were higher on speculative buying by Wall street and commission houses. Grains steady, with slight decline in corn, bonds inactive, with reactionary tendencies in liberties, and foreign issues and higher prices
for domestic industrials and rails.

The Pope said that since the so-signal blessings to both the Catholic religion and to the civic welfare of the country."

Tex Rickard Retrenching.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Sept. 19.—According to backstairs gossip, Tex Rickard has washed his official hands of the big timers in pugilism for many months to come and will daily only with enterprises of a comparatively modest nature. It is alleged that Rickard failed to realize the profit expected by him during the present season and that an era of retrenchment is at hand. Dempsey, Leonard, Mickey Walker and other gentlemen of the profession who think in terms of hundreds of thousands or not at all are not likely to appear, it is said, in any bout promoted by Rickard for some time.

A Simple Matter

They were sitting on the piazza of a summer hotel swapping stories.
"Ever hear this one?" asked the dark young man. "A dog was tied to a rope fourteen feet long. Twenty feet away was a fat, juicy bone. How did the dog get to the bone?"

"Oh, that's an old gag," said his companion. "You want me to say, 'I gave it up, and then you'd say, 'That's what the other cur did.'"

"No, you're wrong, for the dog got the bone."

"Well, how did he get it?"

"Why, the other end of the rope was not tied."

Mending Glassware

There are several good preparations for mending broken tumblers and other glassware, but the following is highly recommended by a housewife, who claims the mended article can be put into boiling water without breaking apart:

To make the preparation add one part solution of bichromate of potash to five parts of gelatin. Cover the broken edges of the glass with this, press them together and stand the mended article in the direct sunlight for a few hours. If neatly done the break will not be visible.

Good Recommendation

"I can speak from experience," said
the druggist. "This is the best tonic for nerves. I take it myself, sir; $2.50 a bottle." "It's done you good, anyway, if you're the nerve to ask that price for it!" replied the customer.

POULTRY

BROODINESS AMONG HENS IS BIG WORRY

The egg production in many flocks of the heavier breeds is dropping badly due to the excessive number of broody hens. A bird that is peened immediately in the right kind of a broody coop, fed as she should be and turned out as soon as possible should not loaf more than 10 days, writes W.
H. McNeely in the Dakota Farmer.

Take them out of the nest the first night, pen them in a well-ventilated, well-lighted, slatted or wire-bottomed broody coop. Feed them plenty of good egg-making food, green material and fresh water and see that they are released as soon as they lose the notion and they will pay you for the trouble. It is a good idea to have a special color of celluloid leg bands for broody hens and put one on a hen every time she goes broody. Sell the ones that get bedecked like Fiji islanders and use ones without any of these bands in the breeding pens next year.

It takes feed and time to produce chicken blood, so do not allow the mite to steal part of your income. A thorough spraying or painting of the roosts and nests in the poultry house with some good coal tar disinfectant will pay dividends.

Lice are irritants and keep the hen
so busy fighting them that she has no time to work, so better kill them, too.
Applying sodium fluo-iod powder, a pinch in fluffy feathers below vent, one under each wing and between body and legs and one on the back of the head should rid the hens of all lice but it will not kill the eggs. Repeat in about ten days when the eggs will be hatched and no more laid.

Another way to accomplish the same thing is to mix one ounce of sodium fluo-iod with each gallon of warm water and dip each chicken, making sure that the feathers are all soaked to the skin. This must be done early on a warm, sunny day so that the hens will be dry before night. Repeat in ten days.

Brooder Pneumonia Will Cause Loss of Chickens

Heavy loss of young chicks is often due to brooder pneumonia, a disease caused by dusty or moldy litter, musty feed, or severe exposure.

Brooder pneumonia is sometimes associated with bacillary white diarrhea as the symptoms of the two diseases are much alike. The diseased chicks often breathe with difficulty, the lungs are usually diseased, and are found, upon opening dead birds, to be of a dark color and rather solid instead of light pink color and fluffy.

About the only remedy is to remove the cause. Clean sand is probably the best floor covering for the brooder during the first two weeks, followed by a litter of some kind. Be especially careful that the litter is free from mud or mold. Clover chaff if not dusty, or bright clean straw may be used.

Standardized Product Is Gaining in Popularity

It does not require any special knowledge or marketing skill to sell a standardized product but not even an expert can market, in a satisfactory way, an ungraded product. Farmers and egg producers should keep in close touch with the movement now under way looking toward the grading and standardizing of eggs on a basis that will lessen the losses incident to the marketing of that product. If a good standardized quality of eggs is put upon the market it will tend to increase the consumption of eggs and therefore strengthen the demand and consequently result in better prices and more profit to the producers.

Poultry Notes

Overfeeding is the common cause of loss in young turkeys.

Caponize the cockerels and produce heavy roosters for winter.

A cornfield is an ideal place for growing chicks and they will continue to thrive in hot weather.

Keep the poultry, as well as all other living things on the farm, on good terms with you by keeping on good terms with them.

An egg is 65 per cent water in content. This alone indicates the importance of fresh water supply to the laying flock.

Little turkeys are somewhat delicate at first—but after they are six weeks of age they are really more hardy than chickens.

Nests should be arranged so the fowls can get into them readily without being obliged to jump down upon the eggs in the nest.

"Pip" is simply a cough or sound indicating obstruction of the nostrils.
A drop of kerosene injected into each nostril often serves as a remedy.

Ducklings require artificial heat or the brooding of a mother hen for two or three weeks. Their coops should be kept clean, something easier to say than to do.

In Native Gutturals

A correspondent reports a perfectly illiterate Moro who can beat any white tourist playing chess. The writer expresses surprise and then adds halve-ly: "While playing he sings continuously at the top of his voice."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Unchanging Climate

The tale of Pines has one continuous summer, the variations of temperature throughout the entire year being scarcely as great as often occur in a single summer month in many of the northern states. It is rare, indeed, when the thermometer in summer on the island registers as high as 80 degrees, and in winter the mercury never falls below 50 degrees.
